'THE SPIRITS HAVE HEARD'

V.I. Doctor Blessed By Grateful Indians

By HUMPHRY DAVY
PORT RENFREW — The eagle, the whale, the rose-tinted salmon and all the powers of nature were evoked by an Indian band Monday to bless a young Canadian doctor who has saved the lives of many of their people in this small west coast logging and fishing community.

The natural forces were summoned at a strange and spectacular Indian "potlatch" given in honor of Dr. K. J. Davies, 33, who is leaving the logging community after three years service with B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

The band, called the "people of the sea foam," attired in their traditional cedar bark costumes, staged ancient family dances as a farewell honor for the white doctor.

An ancient carved war club was presented to him.

Over 200 whites watched the ceremony in the Port Renfrew community hall.

It was the first time in the memory of pioneer members of the community, the west coast band has singled out a white man to honor in accordance with customs and traditions.

The dark-haired doctor, father of four children, and a former RCAF pilot, was deeply moved by the ceremony.

"I never expected they would do anything like this for me," he said.

Dr. Davies is leaving Port Renfrew to take a post-graduate course at Stanford University.

Known Among Indians as 'Beloved One'

During his service in the logging community, Dr. Davies became known among the Indians as "the beloved one."

Chief Charles Questro Jones, known among the West Coast Indians as "the chief of all chiefs," related how the doctor had saved the lives of Indians who were injured in logging accidents.

"The winds and the storms never stopped him from visiting the sick," he said. "When the bridges were washed out he came to us in a canoe."

"We love him not for what he is but for the spirit which moves him," he said.

Loggers related that Dr. Davies purchased from his own pocket medicine for Indians who were sick and too poor to afford expensive drugs. He worked tirelessly.

The Indians, a famed seafaring band which hunted whales in dugout canoes, staged their famous Kwakwaka dance (dance of joy) for the doctor.

As the young braves danced and imitated the gestures of birds and animals, Chief Jones summoned the spirits to watch and to guard the young doctor in his travel through life.

"Oh wind be kind to the beloved one who has served my people," he said in the Indian language. "May his life be as peaceful as the gentle brook that flows through the green forest."

And as he spoke, a young Indian pointed out of the window to the sky.

A white star moved across the heavens.

"See," he said. "The spirits have heard."

Duncan Murderer Loses Appeal; Hangs June 25

Commutation Of Sentence Now Sole Hope

OTTAWA (CP) — Logger Thomas Sydney Symes, 31, of Duncan, V.I., under sentence to be hanged June 25 for murder, lost today a bid to appeal his conviction to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Five judges, headed by Chief Justice Kerwin, unanimously rejected an application by his lawyer, Lawrence Hill of Vancouver, to have the court hear argument as to why his conviction for the New Year's Day murder of Paul Powling, 31, should be set aside.

Mr. Hill said any appeal would be based on the charge to the jury by Mr. Justice Wilson of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Kerwin, after the judges had compared Mr. Hill's objections and Mr. Justice Wilson's address, said:

"Mr. Hill has said all that is possible and we are all of the opinion that there is no question of law involved and the motion is dismissed."

SOLE HOPE

Symes is scheduled to be executed at Oakalla prison farm, Burnaby.

His sole hope now is that a commutation of sentence will be recommended by the justice department to the cabinet.

Symes shot and killed his friend Paul Richard Powling in a Duncan rooming house early New Year's Day after finding his estranged wife in Powling's arms.

INTOXICATED

His defence was that he shot Powling while in an "advanced stage of intoxication."

"I went temporarily insane when I saw what was going on," the young logger said.

The B.C. Appeal Court unanimously dismissed his appeal in Victoria April 15.

"This was a premeditated killing and it excludes the argument of provocation," said Mr. Justice H. L. Bird.

Symes was defended by A. McDonald of Duncan.

FIRST OF SERIES

U.S. Fires Battle-Size A-Bomb

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) — The United States began the most extensive series of atomic tests in history today by firing a "battle-sized" nuclear device on the southern Nevada desert.

With foreign newsmen watching from "ringside" for the first time, it exploded with a flash 100 times brighter than the Sun and with a thunderous roar. The device was designed for a yield of 10 kilotons, or an explosive violence equal to 10,000 tons of TNT, half as powerful as the A-bombs dropped on Japan during Second World War.

Stymied by adverse winds for 12 days, the scientists finally found the weather to their liking today—the 13th day. For the first time since April 16 the prevailing winds did not threaten to dump radioactive fallout onto nearby populated areas or contaminate the test site itself.

The kickoff shot of 20 nuclear tests to be staged during the series, today's pre-dawn blast presented a fearsome but relatively small spectacle in the family of fission explosions. For a few frightening seconds the darkness became day, as if some giant floodlight had been flicked quickly on and then off in the sky overhead.

The detonation itself thundered like the roar of a monster cannon. The first shock wave reached News Nob, 11 miles from the tower, about one minute after the flash. No heat was felt by newsmen.

The fireball, about 900 feet in diameter, burned with a temperature approaching 1,000,000 degrees centigrade, capable of vaporizing steel girders. It was prevented from touching the ground, and sucking up dust, by the height of the tower, thus reducing to a minimum the possible radioactive fallout from the atomic cloud. The tower evaporated in the blinding flash.

The atomic cloud boiled upward in an unusual double mushroom design.

Moscow Sees Glimmer of Hope In Arms Talks

LONDON (UP) — Moscow saw the "glimmering of a constructive solution" to world disarmament problems today in the U.S. promise to meet Russia halfway in working out their differences.

A broadcast by Moscow Radio said the Soviets will give "the most careful consideration" to practical proposals for a first step in reducing the world's arms and armies.

The broadcast gave the first direct Soviet reaction to the new American stand which U.S. delegate Harold Stassen presented Monday to the London disarmament conference.

Conference officials said Stassen did not intend to start presenting concrete western proposals at today's session of the talks. He planned to deliver a background speech on his consultations in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Adenauer agreed today to press for a limited, disarmament agreement with Russia "under an effective system of international control."

Wismer Moves To Head Off IWA Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — An attempt to head off a threatened strike by 30,000 B.C. coast lumber workers is being made by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer, chairman of a conciliation board that has been holding hearings into the contract dispute for the last two weeks.

Mr. Wismer has asked for and obtained permission from both Forest Industrial Relations, representing the employers, and the International Woodworkers of America to hold private talks with both sides.

Normally, the three-man board would bring in a recommendation which would be accepted or rejected by both employers and union. However, Mr. Wismer said he doesn't see much possibility of a settlement on this basis.

"The main thing we're trying to do is to get some agreement," he said. "I would like to interview the union and industry representatives separately and in private."

He said if this fails to result in a fast settlement the board will bring in a recommendation.

The union is asking for a wage increase of 20 per cent, a union shop and other benefits. The operators have countered with a proposal for a series of amendments to various clauses of the master contract which expires June 15.

HAVANA ROCKED BY BLAST

HAVANA (AP) — A violent underground explosion eight blocks from the national capital building knocked out Havana's electric power today and caused widespread damage. Three persons were injured.

A city official said anti-government saboteurs were responsible for the blast. The government has accused opposition elements of setting off similar explosions in Cuba's capital.

Full restoration was not expected for 48 hours. Morning newspapers failed to publish.

SEARCHERS SET OUT

Plane Wreckage Seen on Glacier

A ground party headed into the rugged Cascade Mountains today northeast of Seattle, to check out the latest clue in the search for a missing Vancouver Island family of three.

"The most promising clue yet," was Everett Sheriff Bob Twigg's comment about a report that what appeared to be the tail section of an airplane had been sighted in the snow on a glacier in the Cascades.

Two Snohomish County deputies and a mountain rescue group from Paine Air Force Base here were making today's climb to the glacier. The Associated Press reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wall of Duncan and their eight-year-old son, Glenn, have been missing since May 19 on a flight from Ellensburg to Everett.

With the ground party were deputy sheriffs Don and Bob Fisher, who spotted what they thought was an aircraft tail late Sunday. It was on the basis of their report that the search today was launched.

At 12:30 p.m. today, though, there had been no report from the ground party.

100 PLANES UP

A group of Vancouver Island residents who returned home today after five days spent in the search said that in spite of the official ending of the search, "at least 100" private aircraft operators still are spending all their free time looking for the missing family.

"The search ended officially Saturday, yet on Sunday there were 100 planes in the air," said Bill Thompson of Duncan, brother of Mrs. Wall. "Almost as many were out today."

With Mr. Thompson were his mother, Mrs. C. Phoenix, his brother-in-law, John Larsen of Alberni, and a friend, Ben Ruff, of Chemalun.

Twelve relatives of the Walls were on the search, and several friends of the family from the Duncan-Cowichan area.

CANADIAN DOLLAR HITS 24-YEAR HIGH AT N.Y.

NEW YORK (CP) — The Canadian dollar edged up to a 24-year high today when it opened at $1.04 15-16 in U.S. dollars, up 1-32 of a cent from Monday night's close.

The all-time high for Canadian currency in terms of U.S. money was reached in November, 1933, just before the U.S. went off the gold standard, when it was quoted at $1.05.

The high premium is attributed to a steady demand by Canadian industry for funds in the U.S. capital markets. Financing floated in the U.S. must be changed into Canadian money before being used in Canada.

THROUGHOUT FAR EAST

Anti-U.S. Drive Sparked by Reds

TOKYO (UP) — Communist China called today on "all patriotic forces" on Formosa to rise against the government and "drive the American aggressors out of the island" in an aftermath to Taipei's anti-American demonstrations of last Friday.

The situation in Taipei was quiet, but there were repercussions in Hong Kong where American sailors were called back to their ships to prevent trouble, and in Manila where Mayor Arsenio Lacson said he would jail any Chinese attempting to demonstrate against the U.S. embassy.

The Peiping broadcast today was the most bitter propaganda blast yet since the mobs wrecked the embassy in protest against the acquittal of

M/Sgt. Robert Reynolds of Coloma, Md., on manslaughter charges in the "peeping tom" slaying of a Chinese.

Boy, 3, Suffers 63-Stitch Gash From Dog Bite

FAIRMONT, Minn. (AP) — Three-year-old Kenneth Klug, who suffered a nine-inch gash on his face when bitten by the family farm dog, will escape with minimum scars and disfigurement, a doctor said today.

Surgeons took 63 stitches to close the wound, which they described as "almost unbelievable." The wound is healing nicely, a doctor said.

ELECTIONEERING LIVENS UP AT OTTAWA AND PRINCE ALBERT, SASK.

4,500 Hear Prime Minister Rap Diefenbaker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Prime Minister St. Laurent drew his biggest and liveliest crowd at Ottawa Monday night. John Diefenbaker had a happy homecoming at Prince Albert, Sask. For M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low it was more election roadwork.

More than 4,500 persons packed Ottawa's Coliseum to hear the prime minister concentrate his fire on Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker. It was the Liberal leader's biggest crowd so far in his campaign for the June 10 election. It didn't lack in heckling, but his entrance was greeted with songs and a tremendous cheer.

Mr. St. Laurent, who moved into Quebec today for a night meeting at Trois-Rivieres, told his Ottawa audience that Mr. Diefenbaker's aim "seems to be a carrot for every Canadian." But the Liberal chieftain didn't think Canadians would go for vegetarianism to the point of making the Conservative leader prime minister June 10.

About two dozen hecklers, some wearing Diefenbaker buttons, at times became so insistent that Mr. St. Laurent had to pause.

But he brought down the house when he said:

For Youngsters

"We'll have a recess for a few minutes for the youngsters."

He went on to refer to Mr. Diefenbaker's charge that Mr. St. Laurent is holding out a "carrot" to federal employees by refusing to grant a civil service salary increase before the election. That was not so. What ever party formed the next government would, he was sure, see that federal employees were paid salaries equivalent to those in private industry.

And, he added: "Imagine the outcry of our political opponents if these salary revisions had been announced before the election."

The Conservatives appeared to have forgotten their name and were now known as the "Diefenbaker Party," the prime minister noted with heavy sarcasm as he waved aloft copies of the latest Conservative national advertisement which proclaimed, "It's Time for a Diefenbaker Government."

The hall rocked with rowdy interruptions. Hecklers shouted that he headed "A St. Laurent government." The prime minister laughed and pointed to the large Conservative advertisement.

The word "Conservative" only appeared once in small type at the bottom of the advertisement, he said, adding that Liberals were proud of their name.

A Conservative government would carry out its promises and lower taxes "and still do it on a balanced budget."

His $300,000,000 maximum figure would be for current expenditures involved in carrying out Conservative policy, not for capital projects that were self-liquidating and paid their own way.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who later flew to Toronto, also said that and used it frequently in their advertisements.

Diefenbaker

Mr. Diefenbaker meantime, was welcomed to his home constituency of Prince Albert, Sask., with band music and cheers. Earlier, in Saskatoon, he said the cost of implementing Conservative policy would not be more than a fifth of the price set on it by the Liberals.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Liberal spokesmen are claiming it would cost $1,500,000,000 to carry out Conservative promises. But at most it would not cost more than $300,000,000.

A Conservative government would carry out its promises and lower taxes "and still do it on a balanced budget."

His $300,000,000 maximum figure would be for current expenditures involved in carrying out Conservative policy, not for capital projects that were self-liquidating and paid their own way.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who later flew to Toronto, also said that Mr. St. Laurent has committed "one of the biggest prevarications in Canadian political history" by suggesting Ontario would get preferred tax-sharing treatment under a Conservative administration.

"The prime minister is afraid that his chances for re-election have been frost-bitten."

CCF leader Coldwell, in speeches at Winnipeg advocated an immigration policy that would be an integral part of planned development of the country.

Social Credit Leader Low meanwhile continued his grass roots cultivation in his northern Alberta constituency of Peace River.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O God our help in ages past, pray this day for Thy loving care, especially among those who have lived long years here on Thy bounty. Free their hearts of loneliness and anxiety. Strengthen them in time of physical infirmity, and help them to see Thy holy purpose in every life. Amen.

But it'll be a big relief 't' Mister Diefenbaker-on June 10 't' find that he ain't really gonna hev 't' find th' money fer all them spendin' promises he's makin'.

Nobody seems 't' hev noticed that with a little help in th' rush hour th' present Hillside roundabout system works swell.

ON THE HUSTINGS

Record Crowd Hears Fraser

What was described by old-timers as the largest political audience at Shawigan Lake in 31 years—154 persons—was addressed Monday night by Liberal candidate Alistair Fraser.

Mr. Fraser expressed confidence at the momentum of the campaign in Esquimalt-Saanich. "Every indication we are getting from our committees, canvassers and phoned in is more than ever before, it is more than possible that we are going to take this constituency," he said.

Mr. Fraser reiterated the importance of voting for one of the two major parties, and not wasting votes on the splinter parties.

He hit out at Premier Bennett's claim that Social Credit is in a good position to take the balance of power federally.

"That would be a bad thing," Mr. Fraser said. "What we need in this growing and wealthy country of ours is stability."

Canada must continue to do its utmost to achieve peace and goodwill in the world.

"The best diplomat in the western world is Lester B. Pearson," Mr. Fraser said. "If the Liberals lose the election, or Pearson is defeated, it could be most vital to us all."

Importance of Canada's position in world affairs was stressed by Dr. F. T. Fairley, Liberal candidate seeking re-election in Victoria at a meeting of the Lady Laurier Club of Oak Bay Monday.

"Through constant Liberal government during the war periods, Canada has emerged from a pastoral country to a vast manufacturing and industrial dominion," Dr. Fairley said.

Liberal Gov't 'Worst of All'

Premier Bennett said in Vernon Monday night a federal Social Credit government would provide adequate purchasing power for all people; a better deal for farmers; a reduction in taxation; more of the province's natural resources for the people; and a basic $60 monthly pension for elderly citizens.

"Keep faith with us," he said, "and we will keep faith with you."

"Before Social Credit, the interior of B.C. was looked upon in Victoria as darkest Africa," he said. "To invest in Social Credit is a sound investment for all Canada."

Mr. Bennett characterized the Liberal administration as "the worst government this country has ever had."

The Liberals were "terrified" in the present campaign, he said, and not of the Conservatives or CCF, but "this dynamic Social Credit movement."

"If Social Credit didn't count do you think all these federal cabinet ministers would come out here," the premier asked his audience of more than 600 persons.

Waste and lack of planning by the federal government in its defence program was hit Monday night by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Millions of dollars had been spent developing and producing the CF-100 jet fighter, which now are obsolete and unsaleable, Gen. Pearkes said.

"Hundreds of them are in cold storage across the country," he said.

Now the government has spent $200,000,000 on the CF-105 and "not one has come off the production line yet." This plane is also obsolete, Gen. Pearkes said.

Another $20,000,000 was spent by the government trying to develop a guided missile called the "Velvet Glove." This project failed completely and the money has been written off, said Gen. Pearkes, the Conserv-

SLIP OF THE TONGUE BACKS WRONG MAN

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—In a slip of the tongue, George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers' Union (UAW), plugged the wrong federal election candidate. Monday night on a television program in support of Bert Weeks, CCF candidate for Essex West, he concluded: "... And be sure to vote for Don Brown."

Mr. Brown is Liberal candidate for the seat, which he held in the last Parliament.

868 Candidates In Federal Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
The formalities of nominations over, 868 candidates today entered the last two weeks of campaigning for the June 10 federal election.

Apart from a last-day flurry of entries by independent candidates in Quebec, there were no surprises when nominations were completed Monday in 242 of Canada's 263 constituencies. Candidates in 21 other scattered ridings had paid their $200 deposits in an advance nomination day two weeks ago.

At least two candidates were named in every other constituency. In the 1953 general election, 888 candidates were named. The total number of seats in the Commons is 265, with the electors of Halifax and Queens, in Prince Edward Island having votes for two candidates.

When Parliament was dissolved April 12 the Liberals held 168 seats, Progressive Conservatives, 50, CCF 22, Social Credit 15 and Independents three. There were seven vacancies.

Standing after the Aug. 10, 1953, election was: Liberals 173, Progressive Conservatives 51, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, Independents 3.

Sacred Opposes St. Laurent

Social Credit has five candidates in Quebec, one of them Roland Roy who has Prime Minister St. Laurent as an opponent in Quebec East.

Mr. St. Laurent, whose 20,104 majority in a five-man contest in 1953 was the greatest in Canada, also is opposed by Louis Gagnon, Progressive Conservative.

In the Atlantic provinces, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are opponents in 32 constituencies. The CCF has 12 candidates, Social Credit three and one Independent.

Liberals and PCs have a full slate in Ontario's 85 constituencies and there are 60 CCF, 40 Social Credit and nine other candidates. Seventeen of the 30 women seeking election are in Ontario which returned the only four women elected in 1953.

Manitoba has a full slate of Liberal, PC, CCF and Social Credit candidates, plus four others, in its 14 constituencies, while Saskatchewan's 17 ridings will be contested by 17 Liberals, 16 PCs, 17 CCF, 16 Social Credit and two other candidates.

Alberta lacks only two CCF candidates for a full entry by the four leading parties in its 17 ridings and the only absentee in British Columbia's 22 seats is a Social Credit candidate in Skeena.

The Yukon and Northwest Territories seats are straight Liberal-PC contests.

Seats of all the party leaders are being contested by at least three candidates. PC Leader John Diefenbaker has Liberal and CCF opposition in Prince Albert and CCF chief M. J. Coldwell is opposed by Liberal, PC and Social Credit candidates in Rosewyn-Biggar.

Solon Low, head of Social Credit, will have a five-way fight against Liberal, PC, CCF and Independent candidates in Peace River.

Juvenile Joy-Rider Captured As Shots Fired in Wild Chase

Fleeing before warning shots fired by a Saanich policeman, a 17-year-old Victoria juvenile car theft suspect was captured Monday night after nearly a two-mile chase at high speeds. A joy-riding companion escaped into bushland near Pear Street just off Cedar Hill Road where the car was ditched.

Saanich patrolman Const. Frank C. Briers spotted the car at Hillside and Quadra at about 10:30 p.m., a few minutes after it was reported missing by owner George Topliss, 2316 Howard.

He chased it along Hillside north on Cook to Lang and along Lang to Cedar Hill almost to Pear, where the youths stopped and tried to make an escape on foot.

Const. Briers fired three shots as warning to stop, but the two kept going.

The driver was caught by Bob Curran, 3590 Cedar Hill, who saw him running through his property.

Saanich police turned him over to Victoria juvenile authorities, who are dealing with the matter.

City police cars had been alerted to keep access roads to Victoria under observation during the chase in which driver of the stolen car repeatedly attempted to lose his pursuers by switching headlights off.

Happy Family Ends Mortgage Worries

New Plan Will Ensure Mortgage is Paid Off!

Last summer, a young couple bought a home in a quiet suburban area for $15,000. They paid $5,000 down, with a 20 year mortgage for $10,000. As things stand, they should have no trouble paying it off.

The husband is taking no chances. He has a Confederation Life Mortgage Insurance Plan, with a Total Disability Clause. For $8.31 a month Confederation will pay off his mortgage in case of death. If he becomes disabled, the policy remains in force at no cost to him.

Yes, for less than 1% of your initial mortgage, based on age 35 or under, you can protect your family from foreclosure at the time of your death.

Features of the Confederation Life Plan

1. This Mortgage Insurance Plan may be purchased on a 15, 20 or 25 year basis.

2. The cost reduces in later years.

3. After the mortgage period you may continue the protection at reduced cost, or receive a cash payment.

Berserk Sailor Slays Officer

(From UP and AP Dispatches)

SAN FRANCISCO — A sailor went berserk today aboard a navy cargo ship, killing an officer, wounding two other men and then taking four hostages on the flying bridge of the ship.

The shootings occurred shortly after 7 a.m. aboard the attack cargo ship Uvalde, tied up at Treasure Island Naval Station in the centre of San Francisco Bay.

The sailor shot the officer with a .45 calibre pistol.

The dead man was reported to be Ensign Arthur Lusk Morris. Listed as wounded were Ensign Harrison R. D. Lee, shot in the abdomen and arm, and Jake H. Verdek, metalsmith third class, beaten with a hammer.

The sailor was demanding "publicity" before he would give up the hostages and surrender. One report said the men had escaped from the vessel which was sealed off by a detachment of marines armed with shotguns.

Father Schnur, senior Catholic chaplain at Treasure Island, went aboard the ship to try to talk the sailor into surrendering.

"We don't expect any trouble now," Col. E. M. Williams, marine barracks commanding officer at Treasure Island, said.

"The boy seems to have calmed down now," he said, "and we don't want to rush him and have him throwing rounds again."

Ex-Sweetheart Admits He Beat Woman to Death

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)

An impassive Canadian who was quoted as saying he "felt no emotion at all" was held today as charges were prepared in the claw-hammer slaying of a pretty dancing instructor 19 years his junior.

Police said Clare van Horne, 46, of London, Ont., walked into a police station Monday with blood on his hands and coat and admitted he had bludgeoned Mrs. Nancy McLennan, 27, as she slept at the home of her mother in nearby Menlo Park.

The slightly-built Canadian, they said, contended "She was my girl friend up to four years ago in Canada but her mother objected and I got burned over it."

Mrs. McLennan, the shapely mother of two small daughters, came to Menlo Park in November and lived with her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. William van Horne. The step-father is the Canadian's brother.

LONDON TIMES BACKS LIBERAL RE-ELECTION

LONDON (BUP) — The Times of London today endorsed the Liberal Party's bid for return to power in Canada's June 10 general election.

"The world and Canada will be equally surprised" if the Liberals lose, The Times said in its lead editorial.

It added that Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's "fundamental and powerful claim for a renewal of confidence resides in the abounding prosperity of Canada."

Large Entry List for Swiftsure

A large entry list, dominated by boats from the Seattle and Corinthian Yacht Clubs, is assured for the annual Swiftsure Lightship ocean yacht race, which starts from Brodie Ledge at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

It is the first time the race has started on Friday instead of Saturday.

As of today, 24 firm entries had been received, and last-minute entries are expected to bring the competing fleet to at least 30 boats.

The entries will rendezvous in the Inner Harbor Thursday, when all will dress ship for special ceremonies.

Two new trophies have been donated for this year's classic—the T. Eaton trophy for win—"AA" class.

Course of the race is from Brodie Ledge—off the Dallas Road waterfront at the foot of Menzies—to the Swiftsure Lightship, on the ocean side of the entrance to Juan de Fuca Strait. Distance is 136.4 nautical miles.

Hundreds were reported homeless in 21 villages.

Dacca, East Pakistan (AP) — A hurricane in northern East Pakistan has killed 10 persons and injured 100, reports said today. Hundreds were reported homeless in 21 villages.

'ERNIE' HARD AT WORK TODAY

First U.K. Lottery Payoff To Distribute Million Pounds

PYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (Reuters) — A thousand civil servants and a mechanical brain called Ernie worked overtime today preparing for the first giant payoff in Britain's new state lottery.

Government employees in this Lancashire sea resort town are sorting out millions of low-priced savings bonds for the luck-of-the-draw which will put nearly 1,000,000 tax-free pounds in the pockets of about 23,000 Britons.

The serial numbers of all bonds sold last November will be fed Saturday to Ernie—short for Electronic Random Number Indicator Equipment.

Ernie's flashing "eyes," gas-filled tubes and rotating dials will select the winning numbers and give their holders prizes ranging from £1,000 to £25.

The national lottery—first in Britain for 130 years—was started last November in the midst of the Suez crisis as a way to encourage Britons to cut spending, save more and help beat inflation.

Any person over the age of 16 can walk into a bank or post office and buy up to 500

£1 "premium bonds." The money normally paid out as interest is pooled into prize funds.

Prime Minister Macmillan drew up the premium bond plan when he was chancellor of the exchequer in the government of Sir Anthony Eden.

It was greeted with a storm of protest and indignation by some church leaders, laymen and Labor party members. Newspapers caricatured Macmillan as a race track bookie, dubbing him "Honest Harold" and "Honest Mac."

But Britons, who bet millions each week on soccer results in mail-order gambling pools, took to the premium bonds in true gaming spirit.

The first day the bonds went on sale last Nov. 1, £3,000,000 worth were purchased. Sales now have swept past the £69,000,000 mark and should zoom higher after the first winners are determined.

ISTANBUL (Reuters) — The death toll from Sunday's earthquake in northern Turkey rose to 66 today as more bodies were found in villages in the Bolu area. More dead were feared buried under the rubble.

The Windfall

THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA should drastically reduce taxes, says the Government of British Columbia. But when the government of British Columbia is given a chance to reduce provincial taxes it indignantly rejects it.

Under the national hospital insurance scheme the Government of Canada will pay roughly half the cost of the existing provincial scheme. The British Columbia Government will receive about $18 millions a year from Ottawa.

This windfall could provide for a reduction of some twenty per cent in the provincial sales tax. But Mr. Bennett announces that there will be no reduction. The extra money, he says, will be spent one way or another for the people's benefit. The people, we think, would prefer the benefit of a smaller sales tax.

Mr. Bennett replies that a reduction in the sales tax would mainly benefit the rich and the American tourists. Apparently we are asked to believe that the bulk of the population does not pay the sales tax. In fact, everybody pays it every day on almost everything and the poor pay the same rate as the rich.

Years ago, before he came to believe in Social Credit, Mr. Bennett disbelieved strongly in the sales tax. He knew then that it must bear most heavily on the poor because it takes no account of ability to pay.

He was so opposed to the sales tax, indeed, that even as a Conservative MPP he spoke and voted against the Liberal-Conservative Coalition Government's bill to inaugurate the three per cent levy.

Press reports of the time quote Mr. Bennett as claiming the tax was unfair and would force many people to become criminals.

His opposition to the sales tax was the beginning of his conversion to Social Credit. And as leader of the Social Credit Party he campaigned for election on a promise to reduce taxes and expenditures.

Yet today Mr. Bennett (having piled up expenditures to the highest peak in Canada) says there is no need to reduce the sales tax. Under a former Government it was a vicious, intolerable tax. Under Mr. Bennett the tax has been raised from 3 to 5 per cent and is now an equitable tax fair to everybody and paid mainly by the rich and the tourists.

Mr. Bennett may say that the Federal Government is not reducing taxes and therefore why should he do so? The fact is that the Federal Government has reduced taxes every year since the last war (except during the Korean crisis) and intends to go on doing so as the nation's wealth permits.

In any case, there is no parallel between the federal and provincial policy.

The national Government has rightly maintained a budget surplus this year (after two years of deficit) in order to pay off debt and to counteract inflation. The money thus set aside is not spent on goods but is laid away to reduce, by a small amount, the pressure on goods which breeds inflation.

But every cent the Provincial Government can collect is spent on goods; for if the provincial debt is being wisely reduced, the indirect debt is being vastly expanded by continual borrowing and spending.

No doubt Mr. Bennett can spend his federal windfall of $18 millions usefully, perhaps some of it on increased old age pensions, where the provincial contribution is now extremely small.

Of one thing however, we can be sure—the Provincial Government will continue to demand tax reductions in Ottawa but will make none itself, though the federal and provincial taxpayer is the same man.

The Provincial Government's appetite for revenue is insatiable and its ceaseless rise in expenditure makes the former government look like a piker. And we may be sure also that as rapidly as the Federal Government withdraws from any revenue field, the Provincial Government will try to occupy it. There is little hope for the taxpayer of British Columbia under a Government which came to office promising economy and tax reduction.

Closer Look at the Far East

LAST WEEK'S OUTBREAK OF violence against the United States embassy on Formosa was the direct result of public resentment against a court decision which freed a U.S. serviceman who had killed a Chinese. But it was much too active a demonstration to be the outcome of one incident. Apparently the Chinese rioters were expressing emotions which have been pent up for some time.

If that is a true assessment of the Formosa situation then a complete review of the United States position in Chiang Kai-shek's island may well be in order. Already U.S. Congressmen are questioning the need for so many American troops on Formosa and in other overseas locations. It is argued that their presence in large numbers excites resentments among the civilian populations. The incident has furnished further fuel for those elements in the United States who seek drastic curtailment of America's foreign aid program.

One of the strongest arguments used for continued U.S. support of Chiang Kai-shek has been that the island of Formosa is indispensable to Western security in the Far East.

Taking Symphony to the People

THE SUGGESTION THAT THE Victoria Symphony give a performance on the steps of the Parliament Buildings some time this summer should create wide local interest. The proposal has been advanced by the Symphony's president as a means of proving to Greater Victoria that the musical organization is a genuine part of the community which supports it.

A short program would do more than this. It would bring the symphony to the public as few other activities could.

Attend, or Else

IN AN INTERESTING EPILOGUE to the Dave Beck trouble, Mr. George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, an AFL-CIO vice-president and member of the federation's ethical practices committee, has suggested one means to enforce proper running of unions.

He urges that fines should be levied against members who do not attend union meetings and that legislation should be passed to stiffen penalties for non-payment of fines.

"The rank-and-file member of a labor union ought to be compelled to assume his responsibility to keep his union honest," Mr. Harrison said. "He should be required to attend at least a minimum number of meetings every year and be fined if he does not." Under the Taft-Hartley Law as now written, he said, unions in the United States cannot enforce such a system of fines.

Many union members, it appears, are inclined to show the same apathy to their affairs within the union—until something spectacular occurs—which municipal voters display toward their duties at the polls in this community.

But there is an automatic difference. In many trades, union membership is mandatory. Obviously this characteristic draws into the union men who have scant interest in it other than the permission membership gives them to work at certain jobs.

What degree of compulsion should be exerted over union members to attend meetings is a question which the unions may decide. Before they do, they might probe a little deeper and determine how far a sense of responsibility can be enforced on people who accept cards only as a means to gain work.

How much faith, Mr. Harrison might ask himself, is expected from a rice-bowl Christian?

... But Don't Go Near the Brink

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Mrs. Noggins Follows John

MY neighbor, Mrs. Alfred Noggins, is one of those enlightened voters—there are many of her high mentality—who have been deeply impressed by the clear logic and unanswerable mathematics of Mr. John Diefenbaker.

Hutchison

"I switched from Social Credit and joined the Conservatives," Mrs. Noggins told me, "as soon as I seen that 'I could trust Mr. Diefenbaker.' At first, mind you, I couldn't get it through me 'ead jest 'ow Mr. Diefenbaker was goin' to spend billions extra and cut taxes by the same amount. Then I realized, of course, that 'e didn't mean wot 'e said in the least. Oh, no, 'e's not that crazy. Nobody could be that crazy."

"MR. DIEFENBAKER is too wise and honest a man to believe in the stuff 'e's talkin'. To say 'e believes it is jest a Liberal slander. 'Tis libelous to suggest that 'e 'as any intention of carryin' out 'is promises. But the Liberals never fight fair. They print 'is speeches and take 'im serious. Wot do you expect? The Liberals are always 'ittin' below the belt."

"If you read Mr. Diefenbaker's speeches and think about 'em for five minutes you see 'e couldn't possibly intend 'em to be believed. You can trust 'im because 'e don't mean wot 'e says. You've got to read between the lines but the Liberal papers never print anything between the lines. They've never 'eard of the Marquis of Queensberry rules. They don't play cricket. They play politics and pretend to take Mr. Diefenbaker serious. Our politics is at a low ebb."

"THE Liberals 'ave a cynical view of the public intelligence. They think the people are dumb enough to take Mr. Diefenbaker at 'is word but the people see through all that Liberal propaganda and grasp the 'eat of the matter. They know that Mr. Diefenbaker is really a Conservative after all, no matter wot 'e says, and once elected, will follow the same policy as the Liberal Government."

"Well, twas 'eart-breakin' fer me to leave the Social Credit Party jest as it was on the eve of 'is triumph but I couldn't resist Mr. Diefenbaker's fine, boyish candor."

"WHY yes, Social Credit is gettin' along fine. It stands for true democracy and a Parliament where thirty Social Credit members will 'ave a balance of power and dictate to the great majority."

"At first sight you might not think that was entirely democratic but if you consider it carefully you'll realize that Mr. Bennett is the only one who knows the true public interest and 'tis only right that 'e should stop the country committin' some fatal folly by doin' wot it wants. 'Tis far safer to trust Mr. Bennett than the wild-mob of the electorate."

"When the country is in the middle of this ragin' depression 'tis time for drastic action. And like Mr. Bennett says, there's no inflation at all but 'e'll cure it jest the same."

"Since the govern'ment 'as failed to beat down the flames of inflation with a dash of water Bennett will fix it by pourin' on gasoline. Yes, 'e'll make the rest of Canada like British Columbia, 'igh taxes, debt reduction and all, and you can't ask more than that."

"I TELL you, sir, I was sorely tempted to vote Social Credit when I thought of Mr. Bennett as prime minister bringin' a new dignity into national affairs and re-establishin' Parliament same as 'e re-established the Legislature."

"I'd feel safe in bed at nights against the Roosians when our foreign affairs was in the skilled 'ands of Mr. Gagliardi, who learned all about 'em in Kamloops and mastered the Suez crisis in a flash while flyin' over the 'ighway system of British Columbia in 'is airplane, fer of course 'e was too wise to drive 'is own roads in a car. And when the vast nacheral resources of Canada was put in the 'ands of Mr. Sommers you could feel a new confidence in the future."

"SO I was all fer turnin' the country over to Mr. Bennett and the experienced men around 'im who 'ave a broad vision of Canada and no local prejudices and will get B.C. a better deal from Ottawa."

"Then, when I took a second look, I seen that Mr. Diefenbaker could be trusted even better, 'avin' made 'imself Canada's Greatest Statesman, as the billboards say, without ever bein' in a cabinet, which is an accomplishment without precedent in 'uman history."

"BESIDES, it may be unfair but I began to suspect that Mr. Bennett actually meant wot 'e said, and if 'e does nobody in their senses could vote fer 'im. On the other 'and, Mr. Diefenbaker was transparently frank and honest in warnin' the public with undeniable figures, that 'is policy was impossible. That kind of integrity finally convinced me."

"So I'm votin' Conservative to make absolutely sure that the Conservative policy will never be attempted. Trust John fer that."

Election Opinion

Campaigning With Pride

Thus far throughout the entire election campaign—Alistair Fraser, Liberal candidate for Esquimalt, has spoken honestly and well.

It has long been obvious that the vote cast, cannot be against General Peckares as an individual, but it may well be for the party in power from whence has come benefits in living that every Canadian will wish to retain. Mr. Fraser, like his Conservative opponent, is an honest man. He is also young and virile and at the commencement of his mature years. He is delightfully approachable and keenly intelligent and yet he stands in this particular election as "the party" rather than the personality. As such he has campaigned with understandable pride and vigor.

The Filibuster

One phase of the famous gas-pipe line debate of the last session was the fact that for some reason there was a time limit on the passing of the measure. This gave the opposition an opportunity to talk the measure out and thus defeat the government. To do so they staged a filibuster. Not a democratic procedure and the only reply is a closure which I think the government was justified in using, otherwise we would have minority government.

'Chinaman's Chance'

I am sorry to see the unfortunate choice of words used by Mr. Skillings to describe my chances of being elected as not worth a Chinaman's.

This seems to indicate a definite detrimental attitude toward the Chinese people, who make up a large, useful part of Canada.

However, I am not really surprised, having heard and read speeches of Solon Low and other Social Credit stalwarts where racial discrimination has been obviously intended and seemingly promised.

As to numbers attending CCF meetings: without bands, Bennett, or ballyhoo the CCF meeting last week was better attended than the one of Mr. Skillings, and a two or more party debate would probably loan more listeners to the queer theories of Social Credit. Give the Chinamen a chance, Mr. Skillings.

Blunders Unlimited

At this time Mr. Bennett and his cohorts are seeking support of the electorate to carry their policies to Ottawa.

Their immaturity and lack of common sense is only too well shown by the following recent actions of the Sacred government.

Their inability to write a workable Municipal Act is their most recent blunder. Whether the law was necessary is beyond the scope of this letter. That, from the first, it was going to be unenforceable is certain. However, it becomes law on July 1 and has to be disregarded. Contempt for parliamentary legislation, especially with encouragement by the Premier, cannot be too deeply deplored.

Social's recent imposition of the 10 per cent tax on bingo games is another example of the government's confused thinking. If the game is recognized for charity the tax is returnable; if the game is not recognized for charity it is illegal anyway. The government is then making money from an illegal gambling game. This, in spite of the professed high Christian morality claimed by senior cabinet members.

Their treatment of Sunday sport, i.e. professional baseball in Vancouver is another example. Rather than take a stand and meet the wishes of the majority, they refuse to face up to the issue. The one certain thing is that they made sure that they get their 10 per cent tax from the games.

One cannot view with anything but alarm and despondency the prospect of such men being in power in Ottawa. Surely all clear thinking people must realize that a vote for such an irresponsible party, small though it is against the federal background, is dangerous. One can only hope that the people of this province will bear these things in mind on June 10, 1957.

Following John

The following are the reasons why I expect the Conservatives will win the pending election, viz:

Altogether apart from the fact that the Liberal government has been in power since 1935, there are many political indications why the Conservatives should be returned under the inspired leadership of Mr. Diefenbaker.

To begin with, the federal Conservative party has the support of Premier Frost in Ontario, who holds 84 of the 98 provincial seats.

Then, in the Maritimes, Mr. Diefenbaker has the support of Premiers Stanfield and Fleming of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, respectively, and also many stalwart candidates.

Prince Edward Island usually splits evenly between the two parties.

Newfoundland will probably go Liberal by reason of the fact that the people of that province have never known better. As a result the people there will probably vote Liberal, feeling that the St. Laurent government is their benefactor with regard to family allowances.

Quebec has its own peculiar brand of politics but usually follows the general trend and because of this I am of the opinion that the Conservatives will gain seats in Quebec as they did in 1955.

In Manitoba, under the provincial leadership of Mr. Roblin, who will no doubt be the next premier, the situation will result in an increase of federal members there.

In Saskatchewan Mr. Diefenbaker has always been a winner and the wheat policy of the present government and the discontent of the people of Saskatchewan with the policies of the Liberal government will give added support to the Conservative candidates.

In Alberta the people are beginning to realize that the prosperity they enjoy in common with the rest of Canada is something that is not to be credited to the Social Credit government there in power.

In British Columbia a peculiar situation exists, e.g. both cabinet ministers Campney and Sinclair appear in danger of losing their seats, and Diefenbaker has, in our province, the strong support of Messrs. Green, Peckares and Fulton, together, of course, with excellent candidates in all 22 seats.

As far as Social Credit is concerned, it could be a source of confusion, but I am of the opinion that Canadians generally are afraid of Social Credit and what might develop should that party gain power.

Finally there seems to be a conviction among the electors that the Conservative party is the only party which can replace the Liberal government.

REPORT FROM OTTAWA

By VICTOR MACKIE

In Mr. Frost's Bailiwick

PRIME Minister Louis St. Laurent moved into Ontario in the second stage of his election campaign in a fighting mood. When he emerged at the end of a hectic week, to proceed to the Maritimes, he left behind some confident Liberal candidates who were predicting that seats which had been shaky would see the light and vote Liberal.

Mackie

This was no "Uncle Louis," in the quiet, gentle mannered father image, who raced through Ontario's southwestern area. He visited 15 constituencies and hammered hard at his chief political opponent, John Diefenbaker, and the national Progressive Conservative leader's supporter, Premier Leslie Frost.

The Prime Minister dealt bluntly and effectively in his major speeches with two key points Mr. Diefenbaker had raised in Ontario. They were the need for more generous federal payments in the Dominion-Provincial tax-sharing agreements and the Liberal Government's handling of the pipe line legislation in Parliament.

Neatly Mr. St. Laurent turned Premier Frost's intervention in the campaign against Mr. Diefenbaker. He demanded to know from the Conservatives how they would hand over to Ontario a larger share from the federal treasury, without affecting the amounts paid to the other nine provinces.

"Is the province of Ontario to get more through the other provinces' getting less?" he asked. "Or are the taxes of Canadians as a whole to be raised to satisfy wealthy Ontario's demands with concurrent increases to the other provinces?"

Delicate Question

It was an act of political courage to raise this question in Ontario. It is a measure of Mr. St. Laurent that he did not hesitate to tackle the issue in Premier Frost's own bailiwick. He appealed to the commonsense of the Ontario voter. Liberals in the constituencies liked the strategy.

Hon. Walter Harris, minister of finance, was on the platform with the Prime Minister at Hanover in Grey Bruce constituency. Mr. Harris was the Member of Parliament for Grey Bruce. He is in for a hard battle this time and knows it. The farmers in his area are disgruntled and organized. But Mr. Harris with his prestige as Finance Minister, is expected to win.

Mr. Harris noted that Mr. Diefenbaker in Manitoba had backed away from any suggestion of an alliance with Premier Frost because it left a bad taste in the mouths of westerners.

"Mr. Diefenbaker said Premier Frost had asked and been given no commitment from him. The Conservative leader said out west all provinces would be treated fairly, he denied there would be any increased taxes to give more to Ontario and he declared: 'there would be no significant changes from the present federal-provincial arrangements.' Where does that leave Ontario's premier?" asked Mr. Harris.

On his Government's handling of the pipeline legislation in Parliament Prime Minister St. Laurent predicted that both the Conservative and CCF parties would soon be happy to have the public forget that they had "obstructed" the passage of the legislation. He emphasized that "closure" is a well recognized procedure in British parliaments and that Conservative Prime Ministers Sir Robert Borden and Rt. Hon. R. Bennett had invoked it in parliamentary debates.

Low Key

But it was not a steady diet of political speeches that Mr. St. Laurent served up. He did not forget the children. In fact the children did not let him forget them. They swarmed around him at more than one stopping place, forcing his aides to move in and rescue him from the mass of youngsters all anxious to shake his hand or get his autograph.

But the "Uncle Louis" role was played in low key in the Ontario tour. Instead the Prime Minister was a hard fighting politician debating with his political enemies.

Of the 15 Ontario constituencies visited by the Prime Minister nine were represented in the last Parliament by Liberal members and six by Progressive Conservatives. It is expected that four will switch. Two that were Liberal will likely return Conservatives, and two that were Conservative in the last House may send Liberals to the next Parliament.

In sum total then the representation from southwestern Ontario is not expected to show any change—despite public polls which predict the Conservatives will capture a large number of votes.

The Great Come, the Great Go

ON Saturday night Victorians interested in swimming saw Nancy Ramey for the second time at the Crystal Garden. They watched a very attractive young lady of 16 who already holds the world's 100 yards butterfly record and is a veteran of Olympic campaigning.

Stott

On Sunday morning Victorians interested in swimming learned that they had lost an old friend, Percy Norman, who built up the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club into the strongest team in Canada, served as Olympic coach, and whose memory will always remain that of a man who battled for his kids.

Aquatic greatness came to Victoria last weekend with Nancy Ramey of Ray Daughters' Washington Athletic Club team.

GREAT COACH, GREAT STAR

But there is an affinity. The great swimmers attain prominence mainly because of the great coaches. If Percy did not know Nancy, he knew, almost as a father, those fine Canadian competitors, Joan Langdon, Mary Baggeley, Helen Stewart, Kay McNamee, Gerry McNamee, Bobby Hooper and a host of others. He was the man, knowing little about diving, who encouraged and brought along two small youngsters, George Athans and Lynda Adams, until they became the best springboard performers in the country and made Olympic teams.

He wasn't the easiest man to get along with. Percy figured only God had the right to stand in the way of his swimmers. At any meet when there was advantage to be gained for his youngster by a shunt, a howl or a protest, Percy made it. He was a holler guy, but the holler was never for himself, always for his kids.

He had a way of making his point. Big, bulky, with a stomach he could thrust out as a weapon of attack, he refused to back up.

What he said went with his team. But the attachment between swimmers and coach was always healthy—never one of those unhappy cases of domination by which some coaches take over the entire thinking and emotional lives of their charges.

The youngsters swam for Percy because they loved him and respected him. They kidded him about his weight, wheeled concessions from him, and did what he said.

He was a favorite rival of Archie McKinnon and the Victoria Y, a respected opponent of Ray Daughters and the Washington Athletic Club, a force in Canadian and northwest swimming and an international figure in aquatics.

You can dig back 30 odd years into Victoria swimming activities and find Percy Norman's name in the records.

He belonged as a competitor to the pioneers, racing in the days of the early Times swims, the old regattas at the Gorge against stars such as Tommy Wellburn, George Silburn, Dave Barclay and Earl Squires.

PRACTICED SCOWL

He was the well-padded boy with the round face and happy grin. In later years he practiced making fierce scowls. Occasionally they were impressive. If you hadn't known Percy too long, if you knew him, you took evasive action against the stomach he would throw against you, crowding you to a wall, and asked him what he was belly-aching about. If he knew you as well, he'd either look troubled, when he thought his youngsters weren't getting a fair deal, or he'd break into a grin if his bluff was called.

Younger crowds knew him as a big man, often hot, frequently bothered, but generous and friendly. They knew him as the maker of champions. And they knew him as a man of quiet courage. Nobody here heard Percy complain against the last big enemy he fought. As far as anyone in Victoria knew, he took his beating silently.

Swimming history in B.C. and Canada will apply its own measures to Percy Norman. It must credit him with establishing Vancouver as a centre of champions.

But it cannot give him the stature he enjoyed in the hearts of those who knew him well. Their tribute must be largely unspoken, too personal for public ears. In it will be a certain devotion for the burly, untidy man who took youngsters almost from the toddling stage, made them champions, and fought all the way to the finish and beyond for them.

In their silence, those kids know his magnificence.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Fibrositis

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Fibrositis is one of the commonest diseases of man. It is a fairly harmless younger brother of arthritis. Throughout a lifetime the sufferer is likely to have attacks of aching muscles, ligaments, tendons and bursas; or soreness or stiffness, or tenderness in various tissues. Occasionally, he may get a stiff neck or some sore ribs, and when he starts to play tennis in the spring he may get a "charley horse."

The great advantage of this disease over arthritis is that, after 60 years of it, a man's joints are likely to look normal, without any deformity. Nothing wrong can be seen with the x-ray because the ends of the bones that enter the joints are not deformed. That the disease is related to arthritis is shown, I think, by the fact that it can often be found in relatives of persons who have severe forms of arthritis.

I myself have had fibrositis all of my life, and as yet I haven't come to any bad end. At present writing, my joints are all limber and without pain. I've never taken any treatment for my spells of pain and stiffness, and the distress has always cleared away by itself within a matter of weeks or months. I haven't any idea why the spells come or go. I imagine there is some chemical change that takes place in my body. In my case no one else in the family has been arthritic. As I remember, the trouble started in one knee when I was seven years old. Because of this tendency I could not play football. Any injury to a joint was likely to cripple me for a month or more. In the cases of my team mates, soreness due to a blow would clear up in a few days.

Some physicians think that fibrositis flares up because of inclement weather. I personally have never seen an attack come because I was exposed to the elements, even when during a Minnesota winter, I got badly chilled.

In some people so-called fibrositis nodules appear in the muscles of the neck or in the tissues under the skin back of the sacroiliac joints. Some of the nodules in the lower back are made of fat. It is possible that some of the pain felt in attacks of fibrositis is due to changes in the nerves.

No one knows the cause of fibrositis. Some doctors have claimed that it was due to a neurosis and worry.

How does one diagnose fibrositis? One diagnoses fibrositis usually if the patient has had many attacks of stiffness and soreness and limitation of motion without ever getting any deformity. Often the disease appears in youth and lasts throughout life. X-ray studies show nothing. Sometimes one can feel that sections of one or two ribs are tender to the touch, or one can find that certain muscles are tender to pressure or to pinching. Often the muscles in the back of the neck are tender. In those cases in which one wonders if the patient has a beginning arthritis of a serious type, one should get the red blood sedimentation rate measured. If the rate is low (normal), the disease is probably fibrositis; if the rate is high, it is more likely that the patient has arthritis.

Treatment is generally designed to relieve pain and to help spasm in the tissues. Aspirin is good, and soaking in a hot tub of water helps. Cortisone and the related drugs are not to be used. Physiotherapy, with heat, massage and diathermy may help.

Taller Perennials Need Early Staking

While we all appreciate neatness in the garden—we rarely get around to staking and tying those tall growing perennials before rain and wind have done some damage.

One reason, no doubt, is our dislike for a forest of bare stakes which 'exists' until sufficient foliage has grown up to cover them.

Yet, it is almost impossible to get a natural look to a staked plant unless the separate growths are trained in and tied as they progress.

The day of using one massive stake and looping a heavy string around the entire plant, has gone. The present trend is to use several light stakes spaced around the clump and to secure a few growths to each stake for a more natural appearance.

While the ties should be securely fastened to the stakes, they should be loosely looped around the plant stems. This permits expansion of the stem, movement in wind without breaking at the tie point, and does away with the stiff formal appearance so many tied plants exhibit.

As an old gardener told his apprentices, a plant is properly tied when no one would suspect the presence of a stake or a string.

To have five-foot stakes arranged around a two-foot plant may look a little ridiculous right now, but unless the growths are secured before they start to sprawl we shall be looking at twisted stems and bent flower heads at a later date.

One gardener tells me he uses short stakes while the plants are small, and additional longer stakes when the growths require them. This would eliminate the forest of bare stakes, and if it tends to encourage us to get things tied up earlier in the season, it might be a good practice to follow.

Talks Open in Paris On Red China Trade

PARIS (Reuters) — Trade delegates from 15 countries gathered today to discuss proposals on relaxing the West's restrictions on trade with Communist China.

Sources in London said some West European powers which want to expand trade with China may "go it alone" if the United States persists in its antitrade positions.

The sub-committee administering allied controls on trade in strategic goods—called "Chincom"—includes Japan and all NATO countries except Iceland.

The 15 nations are under self-imposed rules banning the shipment of certain items to Communist China, Russia and other countries of the Communist bloc. There are 207 more banned items on the Chinese list than the Russian one.

France, backed by Britain, Belgium and Japan, wants the Chinese list trimmed down to the same level as the one applied to Russia. The U.S. said it would be willing to make the two lists the same if 47 items were added to the Russian one.

If no compromise solution is reached, such as adding some insignificant items to the Russian list, the European countries may "go it alone," informed sources said.

NOTE TO KREMLIN

'Free Germany' Adenauer Urges Russ

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told the Soviet Union today his government would be willing to consider a demilitarized zone in Central Europe if the Russians would agree to "reunification of Germany in freedom."

In a 4,000-word message, Adenauer said he wants to reassure the Russians his government is willing to accept any legitimate Soviet proposal that would guarantee a free, reunited Germany.

Adenauer again rejected the Soviet proposal that he negotiate German reunification with the Communist East German government. The 17,000,000 East Germans, Adenauer said, are not free to make any decisions for themselves. They are, he added, under "the domination of Communist functionaries, who are falsely called the working class."

The note was the third exchange between the two governments in 24 hours and was in reply to a Soviet message sent last October.

FLIGHT PRACTICE IN SCHOOLROOM — Nine-year-old Carol Volkert, pupil in Chelsea Park School, Seattle, practices in Link trainer, a pilot training device, installed in classroom of Jean Bryant (left). Miss Bryant, teaching school for first time, originated idea to stimulate interest of her fourth-graders, and parents and school board co-operated in supplying the trainer. No pupils get to "fly" unless they've completed lessons and filed flight plan. Breaches of discipline bring grounding. The teacher rewards pupils for good work by letting them stay after school, for practice flying. (AP Wirephoto.)

MONTREAL (BUP) — The given today off by the hospital four surviving Dionne quintuplets, Annette, Cecile, Marie and Yvonne, celebrate their 23rd birthday today, but they will not be together.

Marie, long considered the frailest of the quints, has been hospitalized with a recurrent leg ailment and is expected to remain in the Hotel Dieu Hospital for at least another week.

Cecile and Yvonne, both nurses-in-training at the St. Justine Hospital, here, were would be married "sometime in the fall" to CBC television technician Philippe Langlois. Annette will graduate from her music course this summer but has not announced future plans.

Only Marie seems to be unsettled as to her future. The recent failure of her flower shop, Salon Emilie, has caused her to retreat once again into the shell that has characterized the four since the death of Emilie.

Indian Leader Named President Of United Church in B.C.

From CP Dispatches
VANCOUVER — Rev. Dr. Peter Kelly, a Haida Indian of Parksville, is the new president of the United Church of Canada's British Columbia conference.

He was elected Monday night at the conclusion of the conference's convention here.

It is the first time an Indian has held the position.

Dr. Kelly succeeds Dr. W. S. Taylor, principal of Union College, Vancouver.

The conference called on Ottawa Monday to "use its influence" to have large-scale nuclear explosions controlled.

In another resolution it said that Sunday is being made a "dollar day" by "selfish" commercial interests.

The two resolutions, discussed earlier, were approved by 250 delegates.

More than 6,000 B.C. residents joined the United Church during the last year, it was reported.

The report showed that 77,499 families, now belong to the United Church in B.C.

A report on marriage urges ministers not to marry couples on the spot.

"There is a need for counselling before couples are married," it says.

It recommends establishment of marriage schools, which, it says, are urgently needed to cut down divorce.

SAVED BY NEIGHBOR

VANCOUVER—The quick action of a neighbor saved the life of former Vancouver rugby and soccer star George (Nibs) Niblo, 43, who fell asleep smoking in bed early Monday.

David Davy, who occupies an adjacent suite in an apartment building, was awakened about 4 a.m. by smoke. He investigated to find Mr. Niblo lying asleep on a smouldering mattress. He dragged him to safety.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

VANCOUVER—William Lovegrin, 34, was given a suspended sentence after he pleaded guilty to stowing away aboard a Vancouver-owned freighter seven years ago.

Lovegrin was arrested by a city detective on a warrant sworn out in 1950 charging him with stowing away aboard the freighter Tantara. An official of Johnson Walton Steamships, owners of the ship at the time, said his company had "forgotten" the incident.

CAR THEFT CHARGE

KIMBERLEY—RCMP arrested two Toronto men and charged them with car theft Monday after seven-hour hunt by police and residents in the thick jackpine woods near here.

Charged were Michael Popik and Harold William Applegate.

William Miller of Radium, 80 miles north of here, had reported his car stolen after midnight. The automobile was stopped by police early Monday morning and the two occupants fled into the bush, touching off a manhunt.

SIX MONTHS FOR THEFT

NELSON—Bud W. Lewis was sentenced to six months in jail for theft of $225 last December by failing to account to his former employers.

Lewis now is serving a similar term for obtaining a car with a worthless cheque in Trail about the same time.

(OSCAR CLASS) "FEAR STRIKES OUT" (Capitol)—With talented newcomer Anthony Perkins catching and veteran thespian Carl Malden pitching, Paramount's "Fear Strikes Out" scores an impressive victory, whether one likes the sport of baseball or not.

Based on the true story of Jim Piersall, centre-fielder of Boston Red Sox and acknowledged to be one of the best defensive ball players extant, the film uses the game as a means of showing how anyone—in this instance it was Piersall—can be driven to a mental breakdown by a well-meaning, even loving parent, who has demanded too much for too long.

THE DIRECTION of Robert Mulligan must be considered brilliant, one of the year's best. If it had not been for his steady, understanding handling, Malden, who played Piersall's father, would have emerged as a selfish devil with whom any reconciliation would have been unthinkable.

As it was, Piersall senior

CRITICIZE AIRPORT SITE

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Aero Club president Robert Everett says members of his club and other private fliers are "not interested" in the site of a light plane airport selected by the federal government.

The transport department Monday announced at Ottawa that five lots in Pitt Meadows near Haney will be provided for small planes to relieve congestion at Vancouver airport. The site is 33 miles from Vancouver.

Mr. Everett said Vancouver fliers will continue to use Vancouver airport until they are "squeezed out."

could only be pitted by an audience. For he was erring as so many doting parents and families do, he was living his own dreams and ambitions through his son. No matter how well the boy did, if say, he was batting third in the league, then why wasn't he batting first? How would have to do better next season if he was to make the "majors." Not once did the father ever congratulate the boy on what he had accomplished. Until, in the end, Jim Piersall was a neurotic, insecure, without faith in himself and without hope for a future.

MARRIAGE to Norma Moore, the birth of a daughter and his eventual making the Red Sox all add to Piersall's tensions until, one day, he explodes during a game after clubbing a homer. When he comes to he is in a mental institution under the charge of Doctor Adam Williams. Here "Fear Strikes Out" makes a sharp departure from the usual "baseball show" and becomes the excellent, sharply etched study of human emotions and relations it is.

ANTHONY PERKINS, fresh from his success in "Friendly Persuasion," for which he was nominated for a supporting Academy Award, proves that he is one of the best of the new crop of actors today. It is not too much to predict that he will be one of tomorrow's "name" stars if he keeps on at his present pace. Orchids are also in order for Malden, who surpassed himself as the father who wasn't too late in mending his ways.

We have had so many requests for this film that we have seized this opportunity to play a return engagement of this top Scottish comedy. We played it before, in January, to celebrate "Burns' Night," but the weather was most unkind—remember? Filmed in Scotland this whole story is well worth seeing again, the story of the wee lad who wanted to grow up a strong man—and did—to become an Olympic champion at Melbourne, Australia. For those of our good patrons who missed it before, it is a MUST. In color, of course. Wholeheartedly recommended for the whole family.

OF ALL TRUCKS, IT'S FARGO

that offers you these 5 practical advantages!

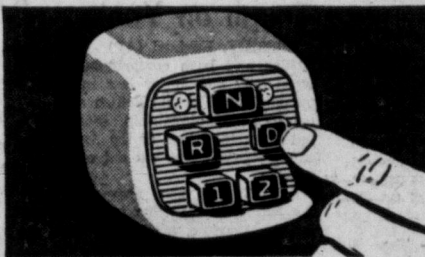

1 With Fargo you get a strong edge in V-8 Power over other trucks in the lowest price range—power that's mighty valuable when you're pulling up a steep grade with maximum payload, or muscling out of a mudhole. And with Fargo you get the kind of super-rugged design it takes to match that power, too... in every major component from heavy-duty frames, to shot-peened rear axles, to built-to-take-it chrome-alloy springs. Result: you own a truck that'll take all the hard, gruelling work you expect—with less over-all strain... less drain on its life. Let us give you the full Fargo story. See why Fargo's best for your job.

2 Fargo V-8's—with exclusive dome-shaped combustion chambers—not only fire fuel more efficiently, but minimize power-stealing carbon deposits as well. The net result is thrifter use of gas, and worthwhile savings. You'll find that Fargo Sixes are extra-thrifty, too.

3 Your driving's push-button easy with this optional Fargo three-speed LoadFlite automatic transmission. Available on the D100 model express or panel you might choose for stop-and-go route jobs, it can multiply engine torque 5.63 times for faster getaways, even under load.

4 You can turn in less space and steer a good deal easier with a Fargo truck. In most models, Fargo not only has the shortest turning radius of any truck, but its steering mechanism is the gear-before-axle type, which is recognized as the most efficient and easiest on drivers.

5 Your "seeing safety" is greater because of Fargo's big, 1023 sq. in. windshield (largest of any truck) and Fargo's optional wrap-around rear window. Constant-speed electric wipers, and independent parking brake—adjustable from cab—are just two of many standard safety features.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

The Inter-High School Track and Field Meet is over for another year and all that remains of it are the miniature twisters of cinders blowing over the Gyro cinder track at Vic High.

We point this out, not from nostalgia, but as an imminent tragedy.

It is a sad thing to report, but the Gyro track is going to pot.

It has more bumps, soft spots and pot-holes than a rural road.

The only maintenance being carried out is the periodic dumping of coal dust on the surface.

The track is drying out and is in danger of heaving.

Small stones, pushed up from the sub-surface, are poking their way through the top surface.

Any runner on the track is in danger of twisting an ankle on a soft spot or pebble or taking a nasty tumble and coming up looking like Old Black Joe.

The pity of it all is, the track was a gift to the school board.

Men like Laurie Wallace and Bruce Humber sweated pure blood in their efforts to have a first-class track built in Victoria.

The dreams were achieved when the Gyro Club raised $20,000 and built a track that, at the start, was as good as you could find anywhere in Canada.

Being a gift, the track had no strings attached to it.

It was taken for granted that the school board would undertake the maintenance.

Expected Care Not Given to Gift

But the track has not been adequately cared for. No clay has been added and the top cinders are simply blowing away for want of an anchor. It needs a top dressing of a mixture of clay and fine cinders to provide a firm but safe running surface.

It needs to be completely raked over to sift out the stones that have worked their way to the surface and it needs to be rolled to eliminate soft spots.

It needs regular watering to keep it from baking in the summer sun. The pathetic thing is, the infield grass is watered regularly but no-one seems to consider the fact that the track needs watering, too.

If the school board is not conversant with the techniques of grooming a track, they could consult the local track people from the YMCA or inquire to the University of Washington athletic department.

Every year, before the June Island track and field championships the "Y" track team overhauls the track for their own use and, for a while, it is in good shape.

But then the deterioration sets in again.

For the value that would be received in years to come, the cost of refurbishing the track would be negligible.

But if it is not attended to quickly, it may be too late. The track may be beyond repair.

And when a new track is needed, there may not be another $20,000 angel around.

Which reminds you, our reporters must have lost little Sandra Futcher in a cinder cloud Friday.

Sandra, all 100 pounds of her, never did receive adequate salutation for her victories in the junior girls' 100 (she set a new record) and in the junior 60 (tied the old record).

Oh, yes, And Sandra had a second in the junior girls' broad jump and won the junior aggregate.

Such talents are what prompted one Vic High teacher to say of Sandra, "She was the real Vic High hero. It was the girls who won the title for the school this year. They bullied the boys, coaxed them and just jarred them out of their complacent attitude and made them get out and practice. Sandra was the leader."

UMPIRE ATTACKED

Barry Hurls Beaut; Players Suspended

Barry Jackson was the toast of the Firefighters Monday night following their 3-1 win over Firefighters in a senior B men's softball game at Central Park.

Jackson turned in a sparkling mound performance, retired the first 19 batters to face him and finishing with a two-hitter.

The win held Firefighters in top spot—a meagre half-game ahead of Brodie's Bakery, who went all-out to dump Re-refined Oil at Heywood Park with a 6-0 shutout registered by pitcher Jack Girard.

In Sunday action, Brodie's thumped Mary's 10-2 while Navy set down Tudor House 13-3.

WILD GAME

But, it was Saturday's game between Firefighters and Re-refined that had the tongues wagging, even during last night's games.

With a tight, 5-5, ball game going into the bottom of the 10th inning, Oilers, with one-out and a man on third called for the squeeze play.

The runner was called out by umpire Griff Timothy, and before a hand could be raised, Gordie Bremner charged out from the oiler bench and threw a football block at Timothy, knocking him cold for several minutes.

Timothy was unable to carry on and the game was called a 5-5 tie.

Bremner has been given an indefinite suspension while Jackie Paxton, of Firefighters, has been suspended for two games because of fighting following knock-down.

Firefighters 100 200 000-3 7 9
Pitchers: Barry Jackson and Herb Weatherall; Ken Sturrock and Jim Moody.

Re-refined Oil 000 000 000-6 3 1
Brodie's 003 101 100-4 2 1
Pitchers: Jack George and George Pednaul; Jack Girard and Bill Peterson.

FARMERS MEET YOUNG LIBERALS

Hoagy--The Amateur's Pro

Born in Winnipeg, Manitoba, 23 years ago, he's 5 feet 10 inches tall, has a 180-pound frame topped by sandy blonde hair and flashing blue Irish eyes. His name is Bruce (Hoagy) Carmichael.

When he steps out onto a playing field or arena and smiles up at the fans, there are great gaps showing where his front teeth used to be, before he was 16 years old. On his chin is a three-inch half-moon scar that illustrates how some of those teeth were lost.

He's a money athlete. That is, he plays professional hockey in the New York Ranger chain, for Victoria Cougars, and he has the post of assistant pro at Royal Colwood Golf Club, under Bill Court.

But these are statistics, and as such, are barren and lifeless things behind which there is a living, energetic young man whose favorite off-field pastime is a rousing game of poker.

Leaving hockey, basketball and soccer aside, Bruce started his baseball career when he was 10 years old, playing in Winnipeg Bantam Leagues.

He moved up when he was 16 and went

FAMILIAR ROLE

Medalist in the annual Victoria women's golf championships at Victoria Golf Club Monday, Mrs. Margaret Todd was holding down her usual position of favorite as match play in the tournament got under way at the Oak Bay course this morning. Mrs. Todd, who fired an 81 over her home course to lead the qualifiers, has won three provincial titles in tee-cam and will be shooting for eighth Victoria crown in current tourney. Other former city champions still in running are Shirley Naysmith of Gorge Vale and Peggy Harris of Oak Bay.

Marg Takes First Stride On Trail of Eighth Title

Margaret Todd, with another medal safely tucked away, continued on the trail of an eighth city women's golf crown at Victoria Golf Club today.

Seven-time winner of the city title and three-time provincial champion, Mrs. Todd, who fired an 81 over her home course Monday to take medal honors in the qualifying round of the annual Victoria women's golf championships, faced Mrs. L. E. Pope in the opening round of match play this morning.

Three strokes back in the runner-up spot in Monday's 18-hole test was Mrs. H. G. Means of the Oak Bay club.

Mrs. Means finished a single stroke in front of Joan Lawson, reigning Uplands champion, and two ahead of Peggy Harris, another former Victoria tee queen, who toured her home course in 86 strokes.

Only two other entrants broke 90 in a day of high scores, Gorge Vale's Mrs. B. F. Thirlwell and Mrs. V. S. Godfrey of Oak Bay tying for fifth place with 89s.

Three players were tied for the last two qualifying berths with 104s and Mrs. L. Cann lost out in a sudden-death playoff with Mrs. L. E. Pope and Mrs. J. A. Bradley.

A new champion is assured in the tourney since Isobel MacIntyre, former Colwood swinger who succeeded Gorge Vale's Shirley Naysmith, who qualified with a 98, as champion last year, is now residing in California.

Mrs. Todd, who posted a 74 in a medal round last week, was hitting her shots down the middle of the tees but ran into trouble around the greens as she went out in 39 and came in with a 42 for her eight-over-par 81.

She had seven pars, one birdie—at the par-four 16th—and 10 bogies in her qualifying round. The medalist's card follows:

Mrs. Todd out 635 554 314-39
Par out 535 444 333-34
Mrs. Todd in 556 345 365-42-81

TO MEET CANADA
CHICAGO (UP)—The Kutis soccer club of St. Louis will represent the United States against Canada in the two remaining World Cup preliminary round games.

1—Jack James 17.13
2—R. Lano 4.19
3—P. Nelson 3.08

with the Greater Winnipeg senior champions, St. Boniface Native Sons.

Following last season with the Cougars (his best yet in pro hockey) he decided to stay in Victoria.

Some friends suggested he try out with Farmers during spring training and coach Ed Ash immediately liked what he saw in the new candidate.

Ash's first remark when he saw Carmichael at second base was, "There's the best prospect to come to town in a long time."

Playing for Farmers, Bruce finds himself in an unusual position. He's playing semi-professional ball in an amateur status.

Like every other member of the Farmer Construction organization, Bruce is playing simply because he likes to play baseball and because he wants to leave a place for other Bantam Leaguers to follow him.

Farmer Construction and Carmichael will be at Athletic Park tonight when they face Vancouver Young Liberals in a single Northwest International Semi-Pro Baseball League game at 8.

Redlegs Light Fuse; Braves' Hides Singed

Cincinnati Nearing Road Record

By United Press

The Cincinnati Redlegs demonstrated first hand to the Milwaukee Braves what it's like to have a powder keg go off under them.

Beaten six straight times by the Braves and held to a team batting mark of .258 by Milwaukee pitchers early in the season, the Redlegs turned on their tormentors Monday night with an 11-6, 10-inning victory that ran their string of consecutive victories on the road to 15. Birdie Tebbetts' team now is only two games shy of the major league mark of 17 straight wins on the road set by the 1916 New York Giants.

The Redlegs beat a tattoo of 13 singles off three Milwaukee pitchers to score only two fewer runs in one game than they tallied in the six previous contests this season. In the bargain, they knocked the Braves three and a half games out of first place and maintained their two-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1. The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-2, in the other NL game.

YANKS NEAR LEAD

The New York Yankees moved to within two games of the American League lead when they walloped the Boston Red Sox, 17-8, and the Kansas City A's beat the first-place Chicago White Sox, 7-1. The Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 11-5, and the Washington Senators scored 3-2 and 10-6 victories over the Baltimore Orioles in other AL action.

The Redlegs piled up a 5-1 lead against Lew Burdette but the Braves tied the score at 6-6 with the aid of two-run homers by Hank Aaron and Del Crandall in the eighth and ninth innings. But then the Redlegs batted around in a wild 10th inning marked by a first-inning home run by Hal Jeffcoat and Milwaukee's Johnny Logan to clinch the contest.

Don Drysdale, 29-year-old right-hander, fireballed a two-hitter and Duke Snider and Gino Cimoli bopped off Robin Roberts as the Dodgers made it nine wins in their last 12 games.

Stan Musial smashed three hits, including the 35th homer of his career, and knocked in two runs to raise the lifetime total to 1,500, as he led the Cardinals' nine-hit attack. Musial tied Joe DiMaggio for seventh place in career homers and is the 13th man to drive in 1,500 runs.

The Yankees collected 13 hits good for 22 bases in matching the AL's single-game high for runs scored this year in an assault highlighted by an eight-run rally in the seventh and a five-run burst in the eighth. Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Hank Bauer had three doubles and Tony Kubek had a double and a single for New York.

British Amateur

Tough on Yanks

FORMBY, England (AP)—The British and Irish contingents suffered only one major loss in the opening round of the British amateur golf championship Monday but more than half of the American delegation was put out of the running.

Keith Tate, a good prospect for the British Walker Cup team, lost to John Youldale, a Cheshire news agent, 1 up.

The others including 1953 champion Joe Carr of Dublin, Ian Caldwell of England, George T. Duncan of Wales and Guy Wolstenholme of England won their first-round matches.

Two of the American contenders, Jimmy McHale of Philadelphia and Frank Strafaci of Miami Beach, Fla., survived opening play.

Nine Americans, plus two who haven't yet played, were left of an original U.S. entry list of 34.

Tie, Lose

Victoria Dairy Queen Eds travelled to Chemainus Sunday for two Mid-Island Senior "B" Baseball League games and fared badly as they lost the first 8-5 and had to settle for a 7-7 tie in the second as darkness cut the action short.

A pair of Up-Island pitchers stole the spotlight from the rest of the players with Patriot striking out 13, while Webb whiffed 24. Hits were scarce for both teams in the two games with Chemainus picking up only six and Dairy Queens three.

George Brice threw the afternoon game for the Victorians, while McIntosh worked the local mound in the nightcap.

Dairy Queens 011 000 111-5 1 1
Chemainus 119 101 112-9 3 1
Brice and Heath: Wins and Losses.
Dairy Queens 010 102 021-7 1 1
Chemainus 010 002 010-7 1 1
McIntosh and Heath: Patriot and Sonde.

ART PIKE EXONERATED; TEAMS GET REPRIMAND

Peace has apparently returned to the Senior B Men's Lacrosse League.

Following Monday's meeting to hear reports of a stick-swinging duel between Art Pike of Island Tug and Junior Shamrocks' Roland Hawes, and a brawl involving players on both clubs during a game last Thursday, league president Doug Fletcher told the Times:

"There is no evidence to support the charge that Pike deliberately tried to injure Hawes. Reports of the incident were greatly exaggerated."

"However, Pike has been severely reprimanded for his conduct. Both teams have also been reprimanded."

No mention was made of the Rocks' post-game threat not to play future games with Tugs if Pike were allowed to play.

WORLD HOCKEY ENTRY

Dunlops Carry Canada's Hope

EDMONTON (CP)—Whitby Dunlops, a Cinderella hockey team that built its own golden carriage, will begin immediately the task of building for the 1958 world hockey championships.

"I believe that championship hockey teams are built in June and July," said Wren Blair, 31-year-old manager of the Allan Cup champions, "and I'll begin working on the team the minute I get home Thursday."

Blair came to Edmonton to present to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association annual meeting an application by the Dunlops to represent Canada in the 1958 championships. At a harmonious meeting Monday, the CAHA approved the Whitby bid almost unanimously.

WILL STRENGTHEN TEAM

Blair went to the meeting with a promise to co-operate with the CAHA in strengthening his club, clearance to take his club out of its Ontario Hockey Association league for the season by January, and with financial underwriting that assured the CAHA it wouldn't have to spend a cent.

The Whitby general-manager did not promise to win.

"We feel," he said, "that the important thing is for Canada to compete, not for Canada to compete only if it is assured of a victory."

"We feel that as Allan Cup champions, we are the best amateur hockey team in Canada, and that with the required strengthening can give a good account in the world tournament."

"Certainly it is even greater to be a dignified loser."

Canada did not compete this year after losing in 1956.

Meet Today On Triple Ball Switch

By LEO H. PETERSEN

CHICAGO (UP)—National League club owners were to be asked today to consider a proposal that with one stroke—would revamp the baseball map and quiet congressional attacks on the game.

Under the plan, the Brooklyn Dodgers would switch to Los Angeles, the New York Giants to San Francisco and the Cincinnati Redlegs to New York. The "triple play" could go into effect for the 1958 season if it receives the unanimous consent of the clubowners.

The plan was to be proposed at a special meeting of the league's executives.

The baseball official, who revealed the plan to the United Press, said the shifts would also be discussed at another meeting before the all-star game in St. Louis, July 9, "because it is unlikely such a complicated move would be approved at a single meeting."

Called "Cure-All"

The plan, dubbed "operation big switch," is being presented as a possible "cure-all" for many problems confronting the owners as follows:

1. It would solve the Dodgers' home park problem by transferring them to a great far western metropolis which has given assurances that it will provide the team with a stadium seating about 50,000.

2. It would transfer the spectacular Dodger-Giant rivalry across the continent to cities which are natural rivals.

3. It would enable the league to keep a franchise in New York—the world's largest city—and give the Redlegs a park (Yankee Stadium) which they would share with the Yankees' with a capacity of 67,000 compared to their 29,584-seat capacity in Cincinnati.

National League officials commented cautiously when the United Press revealed the plan but it was immediately hailed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D., N.Y.) and Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R., Calif.)—the two congressional sponsors of baseball anti-trust legislation.

TIME OUT! JERRY LEAVE

"Well, you said for me to get a partner who would make a nice even match with you two!"

Today the 23-year-old southpaw will be discharged from Lakeside Hospital with his doctor's assurance that "he'll be all right."

Score has made a remarkable recovery from the injury, suffered in a game against New York May 7 when a line drive off the bat of the Yankees' Gil McDougald hit him in the eye and left him writhing in pain on the pitcher's mound at Municipal Stadium.

Now Herb is ready to leave the hospital and plans to fly immediately to Hagerstown, Md., where he will continue his recuperation.

At the invitation of the Cleveland front office, dozens of sports writers, photographers and newsreel cameramen were expected to be on hand to congratulate Score on his release and to wish him a speedy recovery and return to the mound.

However, the strikeout king is not expected to return to action until early July.

He will rest completely at Hagerstown for two or three weeks before starting workouts to regain his pitching condition. The workouts are expected to last an additional two weeks at least.

Bill on Spree But Rotary Gets 11-7 Win

Rotary and North Kiwanis were both aiming at the fences at Little League Park in the only local minor baseball game played Monday night.

Kiwanis came up with the most potent slugger but the Rotarians got the most mileage from their blows and racked up an 11-7 National Little League decision.

In six innings of play the teams produced five doubles and a pair of home runs with Bill Hoyt of Kiwanis walking off with individual slugging honors as he belted a home run, double and two singles.

Barry Maloney poled a homer for Rotary.

Rotary packed most of its punch into two innings, scoring seven runs in the first and three in the fourth.

North Saanich swept the junior title ranks placing John Ashby as junior boys' champion and Barbara North for the girls.

CLOSE VICTORY IN DISTRICT COMPETITION

No Champions at Belmont High But Team Best in Prep Track

Without placing a member of its team among the aggregate point winners, Belmont High took a narrow first place win over Mount Newton in the first annual inter-high track and field meet for schools of districts 62, 63 and 64, at Hatley Park, Royal Roads.

Belmont's 70-point total beat out Mount Newton with 68 while North Saanich was a strong third with 56 followed by Salt Spring with 57, Milne's Landing, 34 1/2, and Royal Oak, 18 1/2.

It took a lot of doing, but Royal Oak, low team in the meet, placed one of her competitors on the senior boys' throne when Norrie Spencer scored 10 of his school's points for the title with Gail Logan and Daphne Sluggett sharing senior girls' honors.

North Saanich swept the junior title ranks placing John Ashby as junior boys' champion and Barbara North for the girls.

CHURCH PROJECT

Housing Plan Start Expected Within Month

Building of a United Church housing project for the elderly is expected to begin after a city engineers' survey of Harriet Road property is completed next month.

Victoria presbytery project was approved at a meeting of the B.C. Conference, United Church of Canada, in Vancouver last week.

SMALL START

Cost of the project is expected to total $500,000, committee chairman Mrs. F. H. Parsons said.

The committee plans to start with two or three cottages and continue building as funds are available, she said.

The presbytery has put a $200 deposit on the property and will make further payments on the $15,000 price when it receives the title.

ELECTROCUTED IN TRUCK

EDMONTON (CP)—Two Edmonton truckers, Charles J. Butz and Walter Maskell, were electrocuted Monday while dumping a truck load of dirt near the Mayfair Golf and Country Club.

Their large gravel truck had backed up to the edge of an area being filled with soil. The truck box took about 4,000 volts when it was raised to dump the dirt and came in contact with electric power wires.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—
Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" (And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.)

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form—called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

BREATH-TAKING GULLIES spanned by high trestles keep Shawnigan Lake-

Port Renfrew Road anything but dull. Road is good, narrow in spots.

"NATIVES" of Port Renfrew area take dim view of touring invaders — but make excellent camera shot.

NEW SCENIC VISTAS OPEN

All Now Welcomed On Renfrew Road

By Staff Reporter

A vast new recreational area for Vancouver Island will be opened by a road to the West Coast built by B.C. Forest Products, now open to the public during specified periods, a Times reporter-photographer team learned Monday.

In addition, BCFP is planning a camping site near Port Renfrew, the western terminus of the road which starts at Shawnigan Lake.

But even now, before additional improvements, the road opens the way for island residents and visitors to see the vastness of the Pacific, to hear the pounding of the surf and the whistle of the ocean wind.

The road is the first to Port Renfrew.

OPEN ON WEEKENDS

It is open to the public every Saturday and Sunday, and on weekdays from 4.30 p.m. to 7 a.m., when logging trucks are not operating.

BCFP built and will maintain the road.

Monday we drove into Renfrew, which was once one of the most isolated communities on South Vancouver Island. For years the only connection with the east coast of the island was by sea and logging rail.

The journey took us three hours from Victoria.

The road, extending westward from Shawnigan Lake to Bear Creek Camp and then to Port Renfrew on the Bay of San Juan, passes through a majestic scenic range of mountains.

SCENIC GRANDEUR

In some places the road rises to an elevation of over 2,000 feet and overlooks deep rolling valleys. Bridges cross deep canyons and rivers tumbling down the mountain sides.

The 45-mile highway from Shawnigan Lake is sufficiently wide for the most part. Some sections of the road are narrow, but work is now in progress to improve them for general traffic.

At Port Renfrew we found most of the people haven't yet recovered from the shock of being connected with the outside world.

"The road has opened the door to a new life for us," said one logger. "Some of us, before, only got out of here once a year."

NOT READY YET

Port Renfrew, we found, is an attractive town but not yet organized to cater to visitors.

B.C. Forest Products is now working on public campsite plans.

Residents intend to open a few eating places soon.

Fishing and hunting is good in the area and there is a large beach situated on the east side of the Port of San Juan. In addition, there are caves to explore and trails for hikers.

FIRE DANGER

B.C. Forest Products officials said their only concern is for forest fires.

"We are asking the people not to throw their cigarettes on the road," he said. "Lumber is our bread and butter and a forest fire would destroy many of our new plantations in the area."

MARKER at halfway point of new road is real thrill for long-time residents who never before have been able to drive own cars from home to "outside." (Times Photos by Irving Strickland.)

Prowler Escapes After Short Chase

A report of prowling in a room shining a flashlight around. The shadowy form moved toward the bureau where Mr. Massey had left his wallet.

He called out, "What are you doing in here?"

The man replied, "Did you phone for a taxi?" then ran out without waiting for a reply as Mr. Massey chased him down the hall.

At Gladwell Motors someone entered a used car department office by smashing door glass, then entered a garage next to the office, where an estimated $230 damage was caused.

An attempt was made to back a car from the garage, in so doing a fender crushed and ripped, and a heavy fackle block was hurled through the windshield of another car.

Complaint of vandalism was reported also on Richardson at the weekend, where a house is under construction at the rear of 1901.

Inside walls were defaced and a quantity of lumber and stucco wire stolen. Also, a cement mixer gasoline tank was filled with sand.

The same report stated trees in Pemberton woods nearby, were being cut down.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Verner A. Marte, 1219 Richardson, $5 for driving through a red light.

David H. Talbot, 641 Quadra, $10 for slow driving.

Norman Higgins, 2933 Scott, $10 for passing on the right.

William Cowan, Insurance Man, Succumbs at 62

Prayers will be said at McCall Bros' Funeral Chapel tonight for William Cowan, 62, who died in St. Joseph's Hospital Monday.

Since 1949 Mr. Cowan had been manager of the insurance firm, Johnston & Co. Ltd., here.

Born in Minneapolis, Minn., he descended from a family prominent in the history of western Canada. His grandfather, Dr. William Cowan, was at one time chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Mr. Cowan served in the First World War as a pilot in the Royal Flying Corps. He was a member of the Pro Patria branch, Canadian Legion.

Surviving are his wife, Ange, at 4875 West Saanich Road; a nephew, John Cowan, in Vancouver, and relatives in the United States.

Requiem high mass will be celebrated at the Church of the Sacred Heart, Palmer Road, Wednesday at 9 a.m., and interment will follow at Royal Oak Burial Park.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. It is generally known here that Topaz Avenue was named after a British warship. When was HMS Topaz at Esquimalt?—E.E.B.

A. She was based in Esquimalt in 1859, in 1863 and again in 1868. Items recounting the social and other activities of the officers and crew are to be found in newspaper files of those years.

Q. Will you please tell me how many years Shawnigan Lake has had a post office?—T.L.L.

A. A directory of 1887 lists Thomas Cullen as postmaster at that point. Thus it is clear that to meet the needs of the growing population of the district the post office was established before then.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

There is a tourist workshop scheduled for this week in Victoria.

An excellent form of work for those taking part in the workshop would be to go to work on the various obstacles now blocking city streets.

Either that, or concentrate on publishing a daily road map, advising tourists which roads are unpassable.

I note that the Canadian hardware merchants greeted their U.S. confreres attending a convention here with a jocular sign reading "Yanks, go home."

Positively hilarious.

A constituent writes to ask why I have had so little to say about the current federal election campaign.

He points out I am usually ranting and raving by this time in any election campaign, casting aside remarks to the four winds and carrying on in general.

Well, the reason I haven't had much to say is, I am completely unbiased about the election.

And, although I know who I am unbiased against, I have not yet decided who I am unbiased FOR.

When I do, I will slip into the privacy of a polling booth, mark an X, and hope for the best.

Trusting you will do the same, I am, yours sincerely,

Ships Back Sunday From Training Trip

RCN today released details on three separate operations in and out of Esquimalt:

HMC ships Cayuga and Athabaskan will return to base at 10 a.m. Sunday instead of Tuesday, June 4, as previously announced. The ships have been on joint exercises with units of the U.S. Navy.

HMC ships Ontario, Skeena, Cayuga and Athabaskan will leave June 12, return Aug. 9, on a training cruise with naval cadets of the Regular Officer Training Plan embarked.

The destroyer Sioux is completing extensive re-fit prior to sailing for the East Coast, where she will become part of Canada's contribution to NATO forces. Based here since December, 1945, she was commissioned in 1944, saw 14 action-packed months of service along the West Coast of Europe. Sioux was one of the Canadian destroyers assigned to UN forces in Korean waters, saw three tours of duty there.

Her place in the Second Canadian Escort Squadron has been taken by the spanking new DDE HMCS Skeena.

When the Ontario, Skeena, Cayuga, and Athabaskan sail June 12, they will have aboard 87 ROTP cadets who have elected the navy as their service. The cadets, now in training at Royal Roads, will have completed three weeks here before sailing.

At Royal Roads they have undergone practical training in navigation, seamanship and boat handling, which will be expanded during the training cruise.

In addition to sea training, the cadets will have ports-of-call at San Francisco, Hawaii, Long Beach, Santa Barbara and Santa Monica.

Capt. Robert Welland, commanding officer of the cruiser Ontario, will be senior officer of the training squadron.

Beginning June 1, Oak Bay fire department will issue to applicants seasonal rubbish fire permits valid for the entire summer season ending Oct. 31.

The new system replaces the present one of issuing short-term permits for specified periods.

However, the new permit is conditional on applicants applying in person to the fire chief's office and on the person to whom the permit is given having an authorized incinerator.

An authorized incinerator is one made from a metal drum, placed upon a non-combustible base and covered by a heavy metal screen.

Fire chief's office points out many persons have metal incinerators on a proper base but lack the protective screen covering.

There is no restriction on rubbish fires in the period Oct. 31-June 1 of the following year.

Gordon Head-based Second Battalion Queen's Own Rifles performed their last formal ceremonial in Victoria today when reviewed by general officer commanding Western Command, Maj-Gen. Chris Vokes.

Next month the unit leaves for the summer at Camp Wainwright, Alta., and in the fall goes to Germany.

About 450 officers and men marched on the camp parade square to the music of Battalion Bugles, led by battalion mascot Deuce Horn, Great Dane wearing the unit badge.

Among the 175 spectators who sat in the morning sunlight around the square were Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurren and Rear-Admiral and Mrs. H. F. Pullen.

Banfield Backs Night Council Meeting Proposal

Victoria West Community Association next week will decide whether to support a move for night city council meetings.

VVCA chairman Charles Banfield said he thought the community association "would be all for it."

"So many young people can't get off during the day," he said, that the day meetings narrow the number of available council candidates and council audiences.

He said he would propose the association support the plan when it meets at an unspecified date in the first week of June.

Victoria Labor Council has promoted night meetings recently to city council with the support of Ald. Hugh Ramsay.

Ald. Ramsay points out that the government, in the new Municipal Act, soon will make it possible for a candidate to seek office without heavy property qualifications, but city council day meetings still is a restriction many cannot overcome.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Tour arranged by a Victoria student at Seattle University will bring three busloads of his classmates on a one-day visit here Thursday afternoon.

Plans made by Patrick Martin, 758 Humboldt, a fourth-year student in commerce and law, will include a tour of the city, tea at the Olde England Inn, and some time for shopping. The students will leave that night.

Annual meeting and election of officers of the Kipling Society has been postponed from Wednesday to June 5. Meeting will be held at 317 Cook Street at 8 p.m.

David J. Wright, 18, 1180 May, a Victoria High student, will be in Vancouver Saturday pitting his driving skill against other teenage drivers in the B.C. regional "road-e-o" competition sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He topped 27 other entries in the Victoria "road-e-o" here April 27.

Winner of the events Saturday will receive an Imperial Oil trophy, $100, and a trip to London, Ont., to compete in the national finals in July.

Action to provide life-guards at district beaches is expected to be launched at an early date.

Mayor Percy Scurren and Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, both said today they will look into the matter immediately.

So far, the only step taken to ensure beach guarding was the inclusion in the city budget of an appropriation to pay lifeguard services at Thetis Lake in July and August.

Mrs. Frances Rhin Grant, 70, 614 Marfield, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with face cuts and possible chest injury after the car she was driving was in collision with a sea wall on Dallas near Eberts Monday at 3.35 p.m.

A passenger, Hazel Pryzyk, 613 Marfield, was treated for an injured thumb and discharged.

Mrs. Grant told police she was parking on Dallas when her foot hit the accelerator and the car leaped forward into the concrete wall. Damage was medium.

Chrysler Head Says Research Points to Turbine Car Motors

The gas turbine is probably the auto engine of tomorrow, says Ron W. Todgham, president of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., Windsor, Ont.

"The alternative is an engine powered by nuclear or solar energy, but that is still a long way off, and I think the gas turbine is most likely to succeed the piston engine."

On a cross-country tour of Canada, Mr. Todgham said in an interview at the Empress Hotel: "Chief advantage of the gas turbine is that it would mean direct transmission with no gear changing.

The main obstacle is that the turbine builds up a terrific heat inside the hood. We need to produce a heat-resisting metal at reasonable cost to make the turbine practicable as an auto engine."

Mr. Todgham emphasized that Chrysler, with other leading manufacturers, is doing extensive research of gas turbines and nuclear and solar energy.

"Solar energy means harnessing the power of the sun—and that is still many years away."

Education Discussed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada has urgent need today for men and women with a liberal education as well as for technicians, the annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was told today.

"We desperately need such men and women in the realm of government and politics, in leadership and administration of our social organizations and, most of all, as teachers in our schools and colleges," said Mrs. A. R. Jewitt of Lennoxville, Que., war memorials secretary.

She told the 250 delegates all four scholarships for overseas study granted this year from the order's second war memorial fund are to be given to students pursuing a liberal education.

Her remarks were contained in a text of her address released to the press in advance of delivery.

"What we want are graduates who can think and act for themselves, graduates who can choose between truth and falsehood, wisdom and folly, beauty and ugliness, and thus constitute, by their very nature, a good society," Mrs. Jewitt quoted a distinguished lecturer.

Financial reports of the two war memorial funds showed the order provided overseas scholarships worth more than $23,000 and bursaries for studies in Canada worth more than $17,000 during the last year. Assets of the two funds stand at more than $800,000.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Nancy Cranshaw, aged 12, of Columbia, S.C., for her question:

What Is Osmosis?

Osmosis is a simple law of nature. It goes on all by itself, all the time, all over the world. Unless we investigate, we do not even know that it is happening. But if this law were repealed, the world as we know it would come to an end. There would be no more trees to make oxygen for us to breathe, no grass for the cattle, no corn and no crops. Pretty soon there would be no animals and no people. That's how important osmosis is in our world.

Osmosis concerns the behavior of liquids. Water, as you know, tends to flow downhill. But, under certain conditions, water can be forced to flow uphill. We have plumbing systems to make it flow uphill through pipes under pressure. Plants need water to flow uphill from the ground to their topmost leaves. Instead of plumbing systems of metal pipes, they simply let nature's law of osmosis do the job for them.

You can see how it works with a small experiment. You will need a glass dish and a glass tube, some water and a little sugar. Most important you will need a strip of membrane. Membrane is covering tissue in animal and plant bodies. You may peel a strip from a sausage, if you are sure this covering is natural membrane and not plastic.

Tie the membrane over one end of the tube. Dissolve the sugar in a little water and use it to half-fill the glass tube. Now pour some plain water into the dish and set the glass tube in it with the membrane under water. In a little while you will find more water in the tube and less in the dish. Osmosis has been at work.

The liquid in the dish is plain water. The liquid in the tube is plain water plus the dissolved sugar. The water seeped up through the membrane to join the stronger solution. By osmosis, a weaker solution will always seep through a membrane to join a stronger solution on the other side—uphill or downhill.

The roots and tiny root hairs of plants wear sleeves of membrane. The cells and veins of plants are lined with membranes. And the plant tissues are filled with rich, sugary, liquid sap. The moisture in the ground contains dissolved chemicals. But this solution is weaker than the rich sap in the plant. In the earth, the sap and the ground water are separated by root membranes. So osmosis gets to work and the ground water seeps into the plant.

Other factors operate to keep moisture circulating through the plant. Water evaporates from leaves and branches in the air. This creates space and a pulling force from above. Water molecules tend to cling together. This, along with osmosis pushing from below and evaporation pulling up from above keeps an elevator of water flowing upwards through the plant. This is the power which keeps the plant food circulating and provides the pressure for plants to stand up and grow.

Andy sends a Hammond's World Atlas to Lynn McCormack, age 12, of Yorkers, New York, for the question:

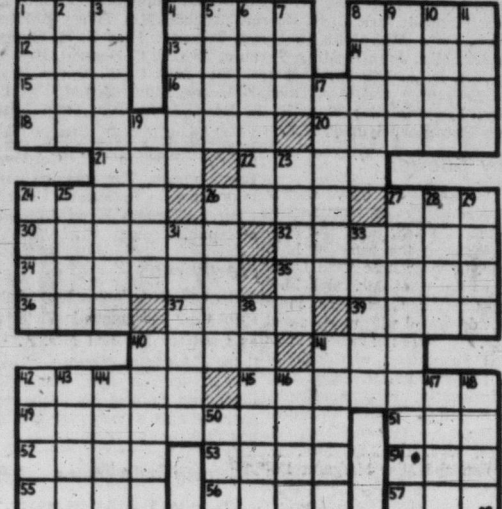

How Does a Geologist Locate Oil Under the Ground?

If you discovered a sure way to locate oil, you would become very popular. For no one can point down and say for sure that there is a pool or layer of oil soaked rocks down here or there. Even trained experts can say only that there is likely to be a supply of precious oil buried somewhere around here or there.

These experts are geologists. They study the history of the earth's crust in various places. This information tells them where oil is likely to be found. For layers of rock types on and under the surface tell the geologist what happened here in ages past. With patient detective work, they piece together the history of a likely area maybe 50, 100 or 200 million years into the past.

They are interested in finding a period in this history when conditions were right for forming oil. Certain layers of rock show that an area was once flooded by ancient seas. Then it became dry land. In time, the slime of the old sea bed, teeming with the fatty ooze of countless tiny sea creatures, could become a reservoir of deeply buried oil. These are the likely places to drill. But even so, the expensive drills may just miss the reservoir. Countless dollars would be saved if someone knew a sure way to drill and find oil.

New Belgian Rifle For Canada's Troops

By DAVE MCINTOSH

Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—The new FN (Fabrique Nationale) Belgian rifle is being placed in the hands of Canadian troops.

It is expected the 13 infantry battalions in the Canadian Army will be fully equipped with the FN by the end of this year and that the army as a whole will have completed conversion to the new weapon a year from now.

The Belgian-designed 300-calibre automatic rifle is being manufactured by Canadian Armaments Ltd., a crown company.

The army's official name is FN-C1 (C1 for first Canadian model)—and is rated as far better weapon than when the defence department bought several hundred rifles from Belgium for use in trials some three years ago.

Britain has also adopted the FN as the standard infantry weapon for its army but the United States recently rejected the FN and decided on adoption of its own T-44. However, both the FN and T-44

Your Social Credit Candidate for Victoria

Two basic facts have emerged from the federal election campaign:

(1) The Liberals will lose the election;

(2) The Conservatives can't win it.

Results of the latest public opinion polls, and a check of the same polls during the 1953 election, show conclusively that the Liberals will lose at least 40 seats.

It takes 134 seats to control the House of Commons, but the Grits will have 130 or less when the votes are counted.

They will lose 12 seats in the Maritimes and Quebec; they will lose 18 seats in Ontario; and they will lose 10 seats in Western Canada.

The Tories, on the other hand, must win at least 80 new seats to gain control of the House.

This advertisement inserted by the Victoria Social Credit Federal Campaign Committee.

House of Commons. In other words, they must win all of the seats that the Liberals lose, plus every seat now held by Social Credit and the C.C.F.

Anybody want to wager on the Tory chances of forming the next government?

The Liberals, with their overwhelming support in Quebec, may continue as the government. But the autocratic rule of the past few years will be ended.

In the next Parliament the government will serve the Canadian people and not the Liberal Party. If it doesn't, it will be kicked out.

Social Credit will hold the balance of power in Parliament, and the Social Credit members will demand, and will get, a full review of national policies.

There will be higher old age pensions.

There will be lower income taxes.

There will be a full investigation of the tight money, the housing shortage, and excessive taxation.

There will be a whole new deal from Ottawa.

3 Minutes To Go, Candidate Enters

VANCOUVER (CP)—Irving Finkleman entered as an Independent in the Vancouver-Burrard election race three minutes before the deadline closed for filing nomination papers in the June 10 federal election.

Ninety-one candidates are contesting British Columbia's 22 seats. There were no elections by acclamation.

The Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and CCF all are represented in every riding.

Social Credit has 21 candidates. There are two Labor-Progressive (Communist) party entrants and the leader of the Canadian Democrats, a new party in this election, is also running. One Communist and two Democrats who had been nominated earlier did not file papers.

Cariboo and Skeena ridings in northern B.C. completed nominations May 13. Arthur Murray failed to file papers as Social Credit candidate for Skeena. The reason has not yet been given but at the time Mr. Murray, a Prince Rupert car dealer, said in an interview:

"I'm sending a report containing my reasons for not seeking election to party headquarters in Ottawa."

THREE WOMEN

There are three women candidates.

They are Miss Jane Kilmer, Tory candidate in Burnaby-Coquitlam; Mrs. Evelyn Fingarson, Socred in Coast-Capilano, and Miss Hilda Cryderman, Liberal in Okanagan-Revelstoke.

Across the nation there are 30 women candidates.

Fisheries Minister James Sinclair is running again in Coast-Capilano riding and Defence Minister Ralph Campney has four opponents in Vancouver Centre.

Tom Irwin, Speaker in the last session of the B.C. Legislature, was one of five persons across Canada who resigned provincial seats to contest federal seats.

Mr. Irwin is a Social Credit candidate in Burnaby-Richmond, a suburban Vancouver riding.

Mr. Finkleman, a salesman with the B.C. Automobile Association, is running in the riding left vacant by the death of Dr. John MacDougall, a Liberal.

He said in an interview he was defeated for the Progressive Conservative nomination in Vancouver East and decided at the last minute to enter the election as an Independent. He has been an Independent candidate once and a Conservative candidate twice in provincial elections.

NATIONAL LOTTERY

"The two main planks of my campaign will be a sensible revision of the Lord's Day Act and the establishment of a national lottery," he said.

Mr. Finkleman approves commercial sport on Sundays—a controversial issue in Vancouver—and says the lottery "would keep Canadian money in Canada."

He said the proceeds from the lottery would be used for charitable purposes. His proposed changes in the Lord's Day Act would also permit publication of Sunday newspapers.

Mr. Finkleman wants old age pensions called "retirement pensions."

"It makes people feel older than they really are, the way it is," he said.

Gerry Goejon, leader of the Canadian Democrats, is entered in the New Westminster riding, won last election by Social Credit George Hahn with a majority of 35.

Although he said in a recent interview "we're beginning to catch fire," two supporters who had been named to contest nearby ridings failed to file nomination papers. They were Charlie Cannon in Burnaby-Coquitlam and Victor Simard in Burnaby-Richmond.

EX-ALBERTA MINISTER RUNS IN B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs and provincial secretary in Alberta until his defeat in the 1955 provincial election there, filed nomination papers Monday as Social Credit candidate in Burnaby-Coquitlam for the June 10 federal election. Mr. Gerhart, 59, moved to Vancouver after the last Alberta election.

500 SHOTS FIRED

2 Die in Gun Battle At Picket Barricade

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A burst of gunfire at a picket barricade on a construction job here killed two men Monday and wounded at least seven others, one critically.

Sheriff L. P. Dickson said witnesses reported "a regular battle with maybe 500 shots fired."

Dickson said officers confiscated "around a dozen" pistols, shotguns and rifles and six sticks of dynamite.

The sheriff said the firing began when non-strikers tried to remove a barricade of railroad ties at the gate to the building site where members of the United Mine Workers, District 50, went on strike May 20.

Coalition in Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haitians swarmed into this bullet-scarred capital Monday to get back to work as Daniel Fignole, third provisional president in four months, labored to pull Haiti back from the brink of anarchy.

For the moment at least, the formation of a coalition of three presidential candidates headed by Fignole and backed by the army appeared to have averted the danger of civil war.

To Keep Wolf

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Officials of the Kinsmen zoo here met Monday night in the shadow of a pen containing a timber wolf which Saturday tore an arm off a five-year-old boy visiting the zoo and decided to keep the animal in the zoo.

The boy, Bobby Gilmore, was rescued by a Winnipeg man. Bobby was in "slightly improved" condition late Monday.

U.S. to Share A-Sub Secrets With Britain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is ready to share its secrets on atomic-powered submarines with Britain.

The Atomic Energy Commission said three American experts will visit the British Isles this week to discuss nuclear propelled submarines with British authorities.

The AEC said both "classified and unclassified data on the development and use of reactors for submarine propulsion" will be exchanged with the British.

The U.S. already has launched its third atomic-powered submarine, the Skate. Its first, the Nautilus, recently completed some 60,000 miles of cruising over a two-year period on its original charge of atomic fuel.

Major Flood Threat Subsiding

DALLAS (AP) — Cloudbursts dumped up to eight inches of rain on scattered parts of Texas Monday, but major flooding appeared to be subsiding in many sections of the United States Southwest.

Thousands of persons remained homeless, however, in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas as rivers streams continued to overflow or run near bankful from earlier torrential rains.

Some of the 2,100 persons driven out by the flooding Trinity River in Dallas hoped to return to their homes today. In nearby Fort Worth, where 4,000 fled the surging river during the weekend, water began receding in all areas although the flood victims were not expected to be able to return before the end of the week.

Flooding continued in southwest Missouri where crop damage has been estimated at $15,000,000. Floodwaters covered an estimated 100,000 acres in delta land between the Missouri and St. Francis Rivers in southeast Missouri.

At least two tornado funnels were reported sighted in south Texas, but neither apparently did any damage.

WAR CLUB FOR 'BELOVED ONE'

Attired in ceremonial regalia, Chief Charles Queesto Jones and his son, Stanley Jones, present old war club to Dr. Ken J. Davies of Port Renfrew for his work among the native band.

'THE SPIRITS HAVE HEARD'

V.I. Doctor Blessed By Grateful Indians

By HUMPHRY DAVY

PORT RENFREW — The eagle, the whale, the rose-tinted salmon and all the powers of nature were evoked by an Indian band Monday to bless a young Canadian doctor who has saved the lives of many of their people in this small west coast logging and fishing community.

The natural forces were summoned at a strange and spectacular Indian "potlatch" given in honor of Dr. K. J. Davies, 33, who is leaving the logging community after three years service with B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

The band, called the "people of the sea foam," attired in their traditional cedar bark costumes, staged ancient family dances as a farewell honor for the white doctor.

An ancient carved war club was presented to him.

Over 200 whites watched the ceremony in the Port Renfrew community hall.

It was the first time in the memory of pioneer members of the community the west coast band has singled out a white man to honor in accordance with customs and traditions.

The dark-haired doctor, father of four children, and a former RCAF pilot, was deeply moved by the ceremony.

"I never expected they would do anything like this for me," he said.

Dr. Davies is leaving Port Renfrew to take a post-graduate course at Stanford University.

Known Among Indians as 'Beloved One'

During his service in the logging community, Dr. Davies became known among the Indians as "the beloved one."

Chief Charles Queesto Jones, known among the West Coast Indians as "the chief of all chiefs," related how the doctor had saved the lives of Indians who were injured in logging accidents.

"The winds and the storms never stopped him from visiting the sick," he said. "When the bridges were washed out he came to us in a canoe."

"We love him not for what he is but for the spirit which moves him," he said.

Loggers related that Dr. Davies purchased from his own pocket medicine for Indians who were sick and too poor to afford expensive drugs. He worked tirelessly.

The Indians, a famed seafaring band which hunted whales in dugout canoes, staged their famous Kuwawquahle dance (dance of joy) for the doctor.

Duncan Slayer Loses Appeal; Hangs June 25

Wismer Moves To Head Off IWA Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — An attempt to head off a threatened strike by 30,000 B.C. coast lumber workers is being made by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer, chairman of a conciliation board that has been holding hearings into the contract dispute for the last two weeks.

Mr. Wismer has asked for and obtained permission from both Forest Industrial Relations, representing the employers, and the International Woodworkers of America to hold private talks with both sides.

Normally, the three-man board would bring in a recommendation which would be accepted or rejected by both employers and union. However, Mr. Wismer said he doesn't see much possibility of a settlement on this basis.

"The main thing we're trying to do is to get some agreement," he said. "I would like to interview the union and industry representatives separately and in private."

He said if this fails to result in a fast settlement the board will bring in a recommendation.

HAVANA ROCKED BY BLAST

HAVANA (AP)—A violent underground explosion eight blocks from the national capital building knocked out Havana's electric power today and caused widespread damage. Three persons were injured.

A city official said anti-government saboteurs were responsible for the blast. The government has accused opposition elements of setting off similar explosions in Cuba's capital.

Full restoration was not expected for 48 hours. Morning newspapers failed to publish.

Plane Wreckage Seen on Glacier

A ground party headed into the rugged Cascade Mountains today northeast of Seattle, to check out the latest clue in the search for a missing Vancouver Island family of three.

"The most promising clue yet," was Everett Sheriff Bob Twitchell's comment about a report that what appeared to be the tail section of an airplane had been sighted in the snow on a glacier in the Cascades.

Two Snohomish County deputies and a mountain rescue group from Paine Air Force Base here were making today's climb to the glacier. The Associated Press reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wall of Duncan and their eight-year-old son, Glenn, have been missing since May 19 on a flight from Ellensburg to Everett.

With the ground party were deputy sheriffs Don and Bob Fisher, who spotted what they thought was an aircraft tail late Sunday. It was on the basis of their report that the search today was launched.

At 12:30 p.m. today, though, there had been no report from the ground party.

100 PLANES UP

A group of Vancouver Island residents who returned home today after five days spent in the search said that in spite of the official ending of the search, "at least 100" private aircraft operators still are spending all their free time looking for the missing family.

"The search ended officially Saturday, yet on Sunday there were 100 planes in the air," said Bill Thompson of Duncan, brother of Mrs. Wall. "Almost as many were out today."

With Mr. Thompson were his mother, Mrs. C. Phoenix, his brother-in-law, John Larsen of Alberni, and a friend, Ben Ruff, of Chemainus.

Twelve relatives of the Walls were on the search, and several friends of the family from the Duncan-Cowichan area.

ARRESTED

Sped Through School Zone At 65 MPH

VANCOUVER (CP) — Willie Mampel, 26, of Winnipeg was charged with criminal negligence Monday night after a car sped through a crowded school zone and crashed into the rear of a parked auto.

Mampel was treated in hospital for head, face and arm cuts.

Police said the car clipped one parked car, continued at about 65 miles an hour through a school crosswalk and crashed into a second parked car. The impact welded the cars together and carried the wreckage 135 feet.

Commutation Of Sentence Now Sole Hope

OTTAWA (CP)—Logger Thomas Sydney Symes, 31, of Duncan, V.I., under sentence to be hanged June 25 for murder, lost today a bid to appeal his conviction to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Five judges, headed by Chief Justice Kerwin, unanimously rejected an application by his lawyer, Lawrence Hill of Vancouver, to have the court hear argument as to why his conviction for the New Year's Day murder of Paul Powling, 31, should be set aside.

Mr. Hill said any appeal would be based on the charge to the jury by Mr. Justice Wilson of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Kerwin, after the judges had compared Mr. Hill's objections, and Mr. Justice Wilson's address, said:

"Mr. Hill has said all that is possible and we are all of the opinion that there is no question of law involved and the motion is dismissed."

SOLE HOPE

Symes is scheduled to be executed at Oakalla prison farm, Burnaby.

His sole hope now is that a commutation of sentence will be recommended by the justice department to the cabinet. Symes shot and killed his friend Paul Richard Powling in a Duncan rooming house early New Year's Day after finding his estranged wife in Powling's arms.

INTOXICATED

His defence was that he shot Powling while in an "advanced stage of intoxication."

"I went, temporarily insane when I saw what was going on," the young logger said. The B.C. Appeal Court unanimously dismissed his appeal in Victoria April 15.

"This was a premeditated killing and it excludes the argument of provocation," said Mr. Justice H. I. Bird.

Symes was defended by A. McDonald of Duncan.

Stymied by adverse winds for 12 days, the scientists finally found the weather to their liking today—the 13th day. For the first time since April 16 the prevailing winds did not threaten to dump radioactive fallout onto nearby populated areas or contaminate the test site itself.

The kickoff shot of 20 nuclear tests to be staged during the series, today's pre-dawn blast presented a fearsome but relatively small spectacle in the family of fission explosions. For a few frightening seconds the darkness became day, as if some giant floodlight had been flicked quickly on and then off in the sky overhead.

The detonation itself thundered like the roar of a monster cannon. The first shock wave reached News Nob, 11 miles from the tower, about one minute after the flash. No heat was felt by newsmen.

The fireball, about 900 feet in diameter, burned with a temperature approaching 1,000,000 degrees centigrade, capable of vaporizing steel girders. It was prevented from touching the ground, and sucking up dust, by the height of the tower, thus reducing to a minimum the possible radioactive fallout from the atomic cloud. The tower evaporated in the blinding flash.

The atomic cloud boiled upward in an unusual double mushroom design.

Moscow Sees Glimmer of Hope In Arms Talks

LONDON (UP)—Moscow saw the "glimmering of a constructive solution" to world disarmament problems today in the U.S. promise to meet Russia halfway in working out their differences.

A broadcast by Moscow Radio said the Soviets will give "the most careful consideration" to practical proposals for a first step in reducing the world's arms and armies.

The broadcast gave the first direct Soviet reaction to the new American stand which U.S. delegate Harold Stassen presented Monday to the London disarmament conference.

Conference officials said Stassen did not intend to start presenting concrete western proposals at today's session of the talks. He planned to deliver a background speech on his consultations in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Adenauer agreed today to press for a limited disarmament agreement with Russia "under an effective system of international control."

Let it'll be a big relief t' Mister Diefenbaker on June 10 t' find that he ain't really gonna hev t' find th' money fer all them spendin' promises he's makin'.

He went on to refer to Mr. Diefenbaker's charge that Mr. St. Laurent is holding out a "carrot" to federal employees

For Youngsters

Bands, Cheers

Mr. Diefenbaker meantime, was welcomed to his home constituency of Prince Albert, Sask., with band music and cheers. Earlier, in Saskatoon, he said the cost of implementing Conservative policy would not be more than a fifth of the price set on it by the Liberals.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Liberal spokesmen are claiming it would cost $1,500,000,000 to carry out Conservative promises. But at most it would not cost more than $300,000,000.

A Conservative government would carry out its promises and lower taxes "and still do it on a balanced budget."

His $300,000,000 maximum figure would be for current expenditures involved in carrying out Conservative policy, not for capital projects that were self-liquidating and paid their own way.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who later flew to Toronto, also said that

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Record Crowd Hears Fraser

What was described by old-timers as the largest political audience at Shawnigan Lake in 31 years—154 persons—was addressed Monday night by Liberal candidate Alistair Fraser.

Mr. Fraser expressed confidence at the momentum of the campaign in Esquimalt-Saanich.

"Every indication we are getting from our committees, canvassers and phoned in now leading me to the conclusion that more than ever before, it is more than possible that we are going to take this constituency," he said.

Mr. Fraser reiterated the importance of voting for one of the two major parties, and not wasting votes on the splinter parties.

He hit out at Premier Bennett's claim that Social Credit is in a good position to take the balance of power federally. "That would be a bad thing," Mr. Fraser said. "What we need in this growing and wealthy country of ours is stability."

Canada must continue to do its utmost to achieve peace and goodwill in the world.

"The best diplomat in the western world is Lester B. Pearson," Mr. Fraser said. "If the Liberals lose the election, or Pearson is defeated, it could be most vital to us all."

Importance of Canada's position in world affairs was stressed by Dr. F. T. Faurey, Liberal candidate seeking re-election in Victoria at a meeting of the Lady Laurier Club of Oak Bay Monday.

"Through constant Liberal government during the war periods, Canada has emerged from a pastoral country to a vast manufacturing and industrial dominion," Dr. Faurey said.

Liberal Gov't 'Worst of All'

Premier Bennett said in Vernon Monday night a federal Social Credit government would provide adequate purchasing power for all people; a better deal for farmers; a reduction in taxation; more of the province's natural resources for the people; and a basic $60 monthly pension for elderly citizens.

"Keep faith with us," he said, "and we will keep faith with you."

"Before Social Credit, the interior of B.C. was looked upon in Victoria as darkest Africa," he said. "To invest in Social Credit is a sound investment for all Canada."

Mr. Bennett characterized the Liberal administration as "the worst government this country has ever had."

The Liberals were "terrified" in the present campaign, he said, and not of the Conservatives or CCF, but "this dynamic Social Credit movement."

"If Social Credit didn't count do you think all these federal cabinet ministers would come out here," the premier asked his audience of more than 600 persons.

Waste and lack of planning by the federal government in its defence program was hit Monday night by Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Millions of dollars had been spent developing and producing the CF-100 jet fighter, which now are obsolete and unsaleable, Gen. Pearkes said.

"Hundreds of them are in cold storage across the country," he said.

Now the government has spent $200,000,000 on the CF-105 and "not one has come off the production line yet." This plane is also obsolete, Gen. Pearkes said.

Another $20,000,000 was spent by the government trying to develop a guided missile called the "Velvet Glove." This project failed completely and the money has been written off, said Gen. Pearkes, the Conserv.

Dr. F. T. Faurey, Liberal, Victoria, at the Seamen's Institute.

"It now holds fourth place in the world's trade and commerce picture."

The speaker blasted promises of less taxes and larger pensions made by candidates of other parties.

"Raids on the government treasury would result and this in turn would eventually mean through higher taxes to cover higher benefits."

Dr. Faurey pointed to the many nationalities within Canada's boundaries:

"These must be welded together with the feeling of security that comes from constant government. Only then will Canada take her rightful place among the nations of the world."

atives chief military critic in the Commons.

He addressed an audience of 47 at Colwood Community Hall.

Everyone in Canada has been affected in one way or another by "tight money," Social Credit candidate Noel Bell said Monday night.

Mr. Bell, running in Esquimalt-Saanich riding, said one remedy Social Credit would make is to provide low interest, long-term loans for housing.

The real issue in the present election is "whether we want to carry on the war between the two old-line parties," he said.

Preferred treatment for B.C. shipyards was promised Monday by Victoria Social Credit candidate Waldo Skillings.

Addressing a noon-hour gathering at VMD yard No. 1, Mr. Skillings said shipbuilding here can and should be on a steady year-round basis.

WINDSOR, Ont. And be sure to vote for Don Brown."

868 Candidates In Federal Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The formalities of nominations over, 868 candidates today entered the last two weeks of campaigning for the June 10 federal election.

Apart from a last-day flurry of entries by independent candidates in Quebec, there were no surprises when nominations were completed Monday in 242 of Canada's 263 constituencies. Candidates in 21 other scattered ridings had paid their $200 deposits in an advance nomination day two weeks ago.

At least two candidates were named in every other constituency. In the 1953 general election, 898 candidates were named. The total number of seats in the Commons is 265, with the electors of Halifax and Queens, in Prince Edward Island having votes for two candidates.

When Parliament was dissolved April 12 the Liberals held 168 seats, Progressive Conservatives, 50, CCF 22, Social Credit 15 and Independents three. There were seven vacancies.

Standing after the Aug. 10, 1953, election was: Liberals 173, Progressive Conservatives 51, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, Independents 3.

Sacred Opposes St. Laurent

Social Credit has five candidates in Quebec, one of them Roland Roy who has Prime Minister St. Laurent as an opponent in Quebec East.

Mr. St. Laurent, whose 20,104 majority in a five-man contest in 1953 was the greatest in Canada, also is opposed by Louis Gagnon, Progressive Conservative.

In the Atlantic provinces, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are opponents in 32 constituencies. The CCF has 12 candidates, Social Credit three and one Independent.

Liberals and PCs have a full slate in Ontario's 85 constituencies and there are 69 CCF, 40 Social Credit and nine other candidates. Seventeen of the 30 women seeking election are in Ontario which returned the only four women elected in 1953.

Manitoba has a full slate of Liberal, PC, CCF and Social Credit candidates, plus four others, in its 14 constituencies, while Saskatchewan's 17 ridings will be contested by 17 Liberals, 16 PCs, 17 CCF, 16 Social Credit and two other candidates.

Alberta lacks only two CCF candidates for a full entry by the four leading parties in its 17 ridings and the only absentee in British Columbia's 22 seats is a Social Credit candidate in Skeena. The Yukon and Northwest Territories seats are straight Liberal-PC contests.

Seats of all the party leaders are being contested by at least three candidates. PC Leader John Diefenbaker has Liberal and CCF opposition in Prince Albert and CCF chief M. J. Coldwell is opposed by Liberal, PC and Social Credit candidates in Rosetown-Biggar.

Solon Low, head of Social Credit, will have a five-way fight against Liberal, PC, CCF and Independent candidates in Peace River.

The Great Come, the Great Go

ON Saturday night Victorians interested in swimming saw Nancy Ramey for the second time at the Crystal Garden. They watched a very attractive young lady of 16 who already holds the world's 100 yards' butterfly record and is a veteran of Olympic campaigning.

On Sunday morning Victorians interested in swimming learned that they had lost an old friend, Percy Norman, who built up the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club into the strongest team in Canada, served as Olympic coach, and whose memory will always remain that of a man who battled for his kids.

Aquatic greatness came to Victoria last weekend with Nancy Ramey of Ray Daughters' Washington Athletic Club team.

GREAT COACH, GREAT STAR

But there is an affinity. The great swimmers attain prominence mainly because of the great coaches. If Percy did not know Nancy, he knew, almost as a father, those fine Canadian competitors, Joan Langdon, Mary Baggeley, Helen Stewart, Kay McNamee, Gerry McNamee, Bobby Hooper and a host of others. He was the man, knowing little about diving, who encouraged and brought along two small youngsters, George Athans and Lynda Adams, until they became the best springboard performers in the country and made Olympic teams.

He wasn't the easiest man to get along with. Percy figured only God had the right to stand in the way of his swimmers. At any meet when there was advantage to be gained for his youngster by a shout, a howl or a protest, Percy made it. He was a holler guy, but the holler was never for himself, always for his kids.

He had a way of making his point. Big, bulky, with a stomach he could thrust out as a weapon of attack, he refused to back up.

YOUR HEALTH

Fibrositis

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

Fibrositis is one of the commonest diseases of man. It is a fairly harmless younger brother of arthritis. Throughout a lifetime the sufferer is likely to have attacks of aching muscles, ligaments, tendons and bursas; or soreness or stiffness, or tenderness in various tissues. Occasionally, he may get a stiff neck or some sore ribs, and when he starts to play tennis in the spring he may get a "charley horse."

The great advantage of this disease over arthritis is that, after 60 years of it, a man's joints are likely to look normal, without any deformity. Nothing wrong can be seen with the x-ray because the ends of the bones that enter the joints are not deformed. That the disease is related to arthritis is shown, I think, by the fact that it can often be found in relatives of persons who have severe forms of arthritis.

I myself have had fibrositis all of my life, and as yet I haven't come to any bad end. At present writing, my joints are all limber and without pain. I've never taken any treatment for my spells of pain and stiffness, and the distress has always cleared away by itself within a matter of weeks or months. I haven't any idea why the spells come or go. I imagine there is some chemical change that takes place in my body. In my case no one else in the family has been arthritic. As I remember, the trouble started in one knee when I was seven years old. Because of this tendency I could not play football. Any injury to a joint was likely to cripple me for a month or more. In the cases of my team mates, soreness due to a blow would clear up in a few days.

Some physicians think that fibrositis flares up because of inclement weather. I personally have never seen an attack come because I was exposed to the elements, even when during a Minnesota winter, I got badly chilled.

In some people so-called fibrositis nodules appear in the muscles of the neck or in the tissues under the skin back of the sacroiliac joints. Some of the nodules in the lower back are made of fat. It is possible that some of the pain felt in attacks of fibrositis is due to changes in the nerves.

No one knows the cause of fibrositis. Some doctors have claimed that it was due to a neurosis and worry.

How does one diagnose fibrositis? One diagnoses fibrositis usually if the patient has had many attacks of stiffness and soreness and limitation of motion without ever getting any deformity. Often the disease appears in youth and lasts throughout life. X-ray studies show nothing. Sometimes one can feel that sections of one or two ribs are tender to the touch, or one can find that certain muscles are tender to pressure or to pinching. Often the muscles in the back of the neck are tender. In those cases in which one wonders if the patient has a beginning arthritis of a serious type, one should get the red blood sedimentation rate measured. If the rate is low (normal), the disease is probably fibrositis; if the rate is high, it is more likely that the patient has arthritis.

Treatment is generally designed to relieve pain and to help spasm in the tissues. Aspirin is good, and soaking in a hot tub of water helps. Cortisone and the related drugs are not to be used. Physiotherapy, with heat, massage and diathermy may help.

Taller Perennials Need Early Staking

While we all appreciate neatness in the garden we rarely get around to staking and tying those tall growing perennials before rain and wind have done some damage.

One reason, no doubt, is our dislike for a forest of bare stakes which exists until sufficient foliage has grown up to cover them.

Yet, it is almost impossible to get a natural look to a staked plant unless the separate growths are trained in and tied as they progress.

The day of using one massive stake and looping a heavy string around the entire plant, has gone.

The present trend is to use several light stakes spaced around the clump and to secure a few growths to each stake for a more natural appearance.

While the ties should be securely fastened to the stakes, they should be loosely looped around the plant stems. This permits expansion of the stem, movement in wind without breaking at the tie point, and does away with the stiff formal appearance so many tied plants exhibit.

As an old gardener told his apprentices, a plant is properly tied when no one would suspect the presence of a stake or a string.

To have five-foot stakes arranged around a two-foot plant may look a little ridiculous right now, but unless the growths are secured before they start to sprawl we shall be looking at twisted stems and bent flower heads at a later date.

One gardener tells me he uses short stakes while the plants are small, and additional longer stakes when the growths require them. This would eliminate the forest of bare stakes, and if it tends to encourage us to get things tied up earlier in the season, it might be a good practice to follow.

Will Social Credit Income Tax Exemptions Help You?

NO! The increase in exemptions and a Social Credit increase in pensions will burden the pensioner and wage earner with more sales tax and a higher cost of living. He will lose.

Here's your hidden beard. Whiskers grow in tiny valleys. Ordinary shavers skim the tops of these valleys—shave only the tops of whiskers. Soon each whisker base grows out and your Hidden Beard can be seen and felt.

Here's how Remington gets it. The Rollectric's Roller Combs gently press the valleys down—pop up whisker bases into path of man-sized shaving head. Each whisker is sheared off at its base—cleanly, comfortably, quickly.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Steels, Oils Lead Sharp Decline

In slow, sluggish trading the Toronto stock market suffered one of its worst declines of the year today. Industrial losses outnumbered gains. Steels and refining oils had the biggest majority of declines. Losses ranged to more than three points.

With quiet trading the order the New York market slipped lower today as a recovery move by aircraft and oils, stalled. Selected issues showed some stronger changes.

AT TORONTO International Paper was off 2 1/4 at 94 and, Papers Mountain was down 3 1/2 to 122 1/2.

International Nickel lost 1 1/2 at 109 1/2 to lead senior base metals lower. Lower-priced mines moved downward in a 20-cent range. Calgary and Edmonton was the heaviest oil loser, down 1 1/4 to 31.

AT NEW YORK Canadian issues, Aluminum Ltd. and McIntyre added 1/4. Walker-Gooderham was up 1/4. Shawinigan paced the American Canadian stocks on the uptick with a gain of 1 1/4. Molymetite of Canada was up 1/4 and Richville 1/2. On the downside, Scurry-Rainbow Oil lost 1/4.

AT MONTREAL The stock exchange headed downward in heavy trading today.

AT LONDON The stock market was quiet and uncertain today with sentiment adversely affected by the decline on Wall Street.

Gilt-edged securities resumed their upward movement but a reactionary tendency developed later.

There were occasional bright spots among Canadians with Algonquin Steel Strong, Shawinigan was several points higher.

AT VANCOUVER fairly heavy trading saw a drop in prices. Vantor sold 15,600 between $2.42 and $2.60. United Oils traded 6,200 at $3.10. Pacific Nickel moved 5,600 at $1.07.

Phelps Dodge To Probe B.C. Copper Claims

VANCOUVER (CP) — Phelps Dodge Corp. of New York, second largest copper mining company in the world, will start immediate exploration of 1,000 mineral claims in the Highland Valley near Kamloops, it was announced Monday.

P. Franklyn Hubbard, president of Phelps Dodge, said that under a deal with Phelps Dodge, the American company will acquire a 75 per cent interest in a new company to be owned by Anson Mines Ltd. Phelps Dodge will hold the other 25 per cent.

Phelps Dodge will assume all operating costs and has five years in which to determine the production potential of the claims. If production starts within five years, Phelps Dodge has an option to buy Phelps Dodge's interest in Anson Mines by paying 25 per cent of the net earnings for 10 continuous years of operation.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Trading was quiet today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange with little export interest.				CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures, which had lost ground on persistent liquidation during the last three sessions, steadied on the board of trade today. Wheat, corn and oats showed fractional gains at times. July soybeans were up more than a cent. New crop contracts were somewhat weak due to the improved weather, but climbed because of the strength in the July delivery.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Versatile Terry Cloth Hits the Headlines Again

By PENNY SAVER

Everywhere I look, I find more useful clothing and home articles made of wonderful washable terry cloth. Practical as can be these fringed terry cloth placemats I found. They have a smart black and metallic gold spray in two corners. When they are soiled, it takes only minutes to rinse them out. Pop them into the washing machine if you wish, the pattern will stay on. They would make very good gifts for showers or housewarmings. The price is $1 for three.

For a bit of fun in gift giving buy for your special friends the cover-all "horsey" aprons that are selling in town. Bib-front aprons of black and white checked denim-like material have on the front a gay horse with fringed mane, button eyes and strawweave hat. Heavy ribbon ties ensure the apron's staying on. If you like, you may also buy it in red and white. They are $4.69 each.

To match the aprons, there are checked hot mitts that completely cover the hand. On the front of these mitts is a matching horse. These are $2.98. The set is really attractive, and the mitt will fit neatly into the apron's big pocket. If the man-in-the-house is a Bar-B-Q fan, this is the perfect gift for him.

If you like grilled foods, but seem to run out of cooking space on burner stoves, this neat two-burner aluminum griddle is for you. It heats evenly, and will cook everything from morning breakfast eggs to midnight snack hamburgers. It's easily washed and can be stored on end in very little space. They are regularly priced $4.50, but now are $2.95.

Also for the electric or gas burner stoves are metal rim burner pads that make cooking a little easier. These pads fit right over the burner and keep foods from sticking or burning and eliminate smoke stains. They spread the heat evenly and prevent breakage of glass from direct contact with metal. With handles the handy pads are 45 cents; without handles, 19 cents.

Rather than search all over town for items read about in the column, call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Eat Proteins, Fruit; Cut Fats for Good Nutrition

Yesterday I wrote about nutrition and the terrific effect it can have on your looks, your health, your personality and your happiness—and this is an understatement. What is known now about nutrition and the part it plays in our lives, and what they are learning every day are two of the most exciting things on the modern scene.

I wish that they had known 10 years ago what they know now! I would expect to be as young at 70 as I am at my age, which is quite a lot less than that. My only comfort is that I have taken advantage of what they knew, while they researched and I lived.

Actually the tenets of good nutrition are quite simple, as outlined by the government of the United States during the war. The emphasis in certain matters has changed some.

Proteins seem more and more important. The protein foods are meat, milk, eggs, fish, fowl, cheese, plus some important vegetable proteins. Of course for some time now vitamins have been dramatically emphasized, and with good reason. You will get a lot of your essential vitamins in your protein foods. In whole grain products, in citrus fruits and fruit juices and in your fresh fruits and vegetables. The yellow and green leafy vegetables are highlighted and are beauty and health measures.

The trend also is to cut fats low in the diet. We need some fat but the average diet has too much. In fact you will have to resort to unusual measures if you eat a low-fat diet. You will have to broil, bake or boil rather than fry foods. You will have to substitute fresh fruit for rich pastry, as a habit. You will learn to cook your vegetables without water or cook them dry—meaning that you do not pour all the vitamins down the sink, with the water you pour off.

I will bet that you don't want to be so extreme that you can never enjoy a gourmet's meal—with lovely sauces and whatever. I know I am not so extreme. But as a general habit in your daily living you and I will receive great benefits from taking to our menus some of the things they now know about nutrition.

Box lunch social: Thursday at 8 p.m. for members and families of Loyal Orange Lodge, Ladies Orange Benevolent Association and Loyal True Blue Lodges in Orange Hall, 725 Courtney Street. Musical program, prizes for best decorated lunch boxes to be auctioned. Sponsored by hall building committee.

A-Bomb

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP)—The United States began the most extensive series of atomic tests in history today by firing a "battle-sized" nuclear device on the southern Nevada desert.

With foreign newsmen watching from "ringside" for the first time, it exploded with a flash 100 times brighter than the Sun and with a thunderous roar. The device was designed for a yield of 10 kilotons, or an explosive violence equal to 10,000 tons of TNT, half as powerful as the A-bombs dropped on Japan during Second World War.

Strymied by adverse winds for 12 days, scientists finally found the weather to their liking today—the 13th day. For the first time since April 16 the prevailing winds did not

DUNCAN PLANE?

Wreck Seen
On Glacier

A ground party headed into the rugged Cascade Mountains today northeast of Index, in Snohomish County, Washington, to check out the latest clue in the search for a missing Vancouver Island family of three.

"The most promising clue yet," was Sheriff Bob Twitchell's comment about a report that what appeared to be the tail section of an airplane had been sighted in the snow on a glacier in the Cascades.

Two Snohomish County deputies and a mountain rescue group from Paine Air Force Base here were making today's climb to the glacier. The Associated Press reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wall of Duncan and their eight-year-old son, Glenn, have been missing since May 19 on a flight from Ellensburg to Everett.

With the ground party were deputy sheriffs Don and Bob Fisher, who spotted what they thought was an aircraft tail late Sunday. It was on the basis of their report that the search today was launched.

At 12:30 p.m. today, though, there had been no report from the ground party.

PORT RENFREW — The eagle, the whale, the rose-tinted salmon and, all the powers of nature were evoked by an Indian band Monday to bless a young Canadian doctor who has saved the lives of many of their people in this small west coast logging and fishing community.

The natural forces were summoned at a strange and spectacular Indian "pottlach" given in honor of Dr. K. J. Davies, 33, who is leaving the logging community after three years service with B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

The band called the "people of the sea foam," attired in their traditional cedar bark costumes, staged ancient family dances as a farewell honor for the white doctor.

An ancient carved war club was presented to him.

Over 200 whites watched the ceremony in the Port Renfrew community hall.

It was the first time in the memory of pioneer members of the community the west coast band has singled out a white man to honor in accordance with customs and traditions.

The dark-haired doctor, father of four children, and a former RCAF pilot, was deeply moved by the ceremony.

"I never expected they would do anything like this for me," he said.

Dr. Davies is leaving Port Renfrew today.

ARRESTED

Sped Through School Zone
At 65 MPH

VANCOUVER (CP)—Willie Mampel, 26, of Winnipeg was charged with criminal negligence Monday night after a car sped through a crowded school zone and crashed into the rear of a parked auto.

Mampel was treated in hospital for head, face and arm cuts. Police said the car clipped one parked car, continued at about 65 miles an hour through a school crosswalk and crashed into a second parked car. The impact welded the cars together and carried the wreckage 135 feet.

The main thing we're trying to do is to get some agreement," he said. "I would like to interview the union and industry representatives separately and in private."

He said if this fails to result in a fast settlement the board will bring in a recommendation. The union is asking for a wage increase of 20 per cent, a union shop and other benefits. The operators have countered with a proposal for a series of amendments to various clauses of the master contract which expires June 15.

OTTAWA (CP)—Logger Thomas Sydney Symes, 31, of Duncan, V.I., under sentence to be hanged June 25 for murder, lost today a bid to appeal his conviction to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Five judges, headed by Chief Justice Kerwin, unanimously rejected an application by his lawyer, Lawrence Hill of Vancouver, to have the court hear argument as to why his conviction for the New Year's Day murder of Paul Powling, 31, should be set aside.

Mr. Hill said any appeal would be based on the charge to the jury by Mr. Justice Wilson of the British Columbia Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Kerwin, after the judges had compared Mr. Hill's objections and Mr. Justice Wilson's address, said: "Mr. Hill has said all that is possible and we are all of the opinion that there is no question of law involved and the motion is dismissed."

Symes is scheduled to be executed at Oakalla prison farm. Symes was defended by A. McDonald of Duncan.

Wismer Moves
To Head Off
IWA Strike

VANCOUVER (CP)—An attempt to head off a threatened strike by 30,000 B.C. coast lumber workers is being made by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer, chairman of a conciliation board that has been holding hearings into the contract dispute for the last two weeks.

Mr. Wismer has asked for and obtained permission from both Forest Industrial Relations, representing the employers, and the International Woodworkers of America to hold private talks with both sides.

Normally, the three-man board would bring in a recommendation which would be accepted or rejected by both employers and union. However, Mr. Wismer said he doesn't see much possibility of a settlement on this basis.

"The main thing we're trying to do is to get some agreement," he said. "I would like to interview the union and industry representatives separately and in private."

He said if this fails to result in a fast settlement the board will bring in a recommendation. The union is asking for a wage increase of 20 per cent, a union shop and other benefits. The operators have countered with a proposal for a series of amendments to various clauses of the master contract which expires June 15.

CANADIAN DOLLAR HITS
24-YEAR HIGH AT N.Y.

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar edged up to a 24-year high today when it opened at $1.04 15-16 in U.S. dollars, up 1-32 of a cent from Monday night's close.

The all-time high for Canadian currency in terms of U.S. money was reached in November, 1933, just before the U.S. went off the gold standard, when it was quoted at $1.05 1/2.

The high premium is attributed to a steady demand by Canadian industry for funds in the U.S. capital markets. Financing floated in the U.S. must be changed into Canadian money before being used in Canada.

ELECTIONEERING LIVENS UP AT OTTAWA AND PRINCE ALBERT, SASK.

4,500 Hear Prime Minister Rap Diefenbaker

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister St. Laurent drew his biggest and liveliest crowd at Ottawa Monday night. John Diefenbaker had a happy homecoming at Prince Albert, Sask. For M. J. Coldwell and Solon Low it was more election roadwork.

More than 4,500 persons packed Ottawa's Coliseum to hear the prime minister concentrate his fire on Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker. It was the Liberal leader's biggest crowd so far in his campaign for the June 10 election.

It didn't lack in heckling, but his entrance was greeted with songs and a tremendous cheer.

Mr. St. Laurent, who moved into Quebec today for a night meeting at Trois-Rivieres, told his Ottawa audience that Mr. Diefenbaker's aim "seems to be a carrot for every Canadian."

But the Liberal chieftain didn't think Canadians would go for vegetarianism to the point of making the Conservative leader's biggest crowd so far in his

About two dozen hecklers, tons, at times became so insistent wearing Diefenbaker buttons that Mr. St. Laurent had to pause.

But he brought down the house when he said: "We'll have a recess for a few minutes for the youngsters."

He went on to refer to Mr. Diefenbaker's charge that Mr. St. Laurent "is holding out a 'carrot' to federal employees by refusing to grant a civil service salary increase before the election. That was not so. What ever party formed the next government would, he was sure, see that federal employees were paid salaries equivalent to those in private industry. And, he added: "Imagine the outcry of our political opponents if these salary revisions had been announced before the election."

The Conservatives appeared to have forgotten their name and were now known as the "Diefenbaker Party," the prime minister noted with heavy sarcasm as he waved aloft copies of the latest Conservative national advertisement which pro-

ON THE HUSTINGS

Record Crowd Hears Fraser

What was described by old-timers as the largest political audience at Shawnigan Lake in 31 years—154 persons—was addressed Monday night by Liberal candidate Alistair Fraser.

Mr. Fraser expressed confidence at the momentum of the campaign in Esquimalt-Saanich. "Every indication we are getting from our committees, canvassers and phoners is now leading me to the conclusion that more than ever before, it is more than possible that we are going to take this constituency," he said.

Mr. Fraser reiterated the importance of voting for one of the two major parties, and not wasting votes on the splinter parties.

He hit out at Premier Bennett's claim that Social Credit is in a good position to take the balance of power federally. "That would be a bad thing," Mr. Fraser said. "What we need in this growing and wealthy country of ours is stability."

Canada must continue to do its utmost to achieve peace and goodwill in the world.

"The best diplomat in the western world is Lester B. Pearson," Mr. Fraser said. "If the Liberals lose the election, or Pearson is defeated, it could be most vital to us all."

Importance of Canada's position in world affairs was stressed by Dr. F. T. Fairley, Liberal candidate seeking re-election in Victoria at a meeting of the Lady Laurier Club of Oak Bay Monday.

"Through constant Liberal government during the war periods, Canada has emerged from a pastoral country to a vast manufacturing and industrial dominion," Dr. Fairley said.

Liberal Gov't 'Worst of All'

Premier Bennett said in Vernon Monday night a federal Social Credit government would provide adequate purchasing power for all people; a better deal for farmers; a reduction in taxation; more of the province's natural resources for the people; and a basic $60 monthly pension for elderly citizens.

"Keep faith with us," he said, "and we will keep faith with you." "Before Social Credit, the interior of B.C. was looked upon in Victoria as darkest Africa," he said. "To invest in Social Credit is a sound investment for all Canada."

Mr. Bennett characterized the Liberal administration as "the worst government this country has ever had."

The Liberals were "terrified" in the present campaign, he said, and not of the Conservatives or CCF, but "this dynamic Social Credit movement."

"If Social Credit didn't count do you think all these federal cabinet ministers would come out here," the premier asked his audience of more than 600 persons.

Waste and lack of planning by the federal government in its defence program was hit Monday night by Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Millions of dollars had been spent developing and producing the CF-100 jet fighter, which now are obsolete and unsaleable, Gen. Pearkes said.

"Hundreds of them are in cold storage across the country," he said.

Now the government has spent $200,000,000 on the CF-105 and "not one has come off the production line yet." This plane is also obsolete, Gen. Pearkes said.

Another $20,000,000 was spent by the government trying to develop a guided missile called the "Velvet Glove." This project failed completely and the money has been written off, said Gen. Pearkes, the Conserv.

SLIP OF THE TONGUE BACKS WRONG MAN

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—In a slip of the tongue, George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers' Union (CLC), plugged the wrong federal election candidate. Monday night on a television program in support of Bert Weeks, CCF candidate for Essex West, he concluded: "...And be sure to vote for Don Brown."

Mr. Brown is Liberal candidate for the seat, which he held in the last Parliament.

868 Candidates In Federal Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The formalities of nomination over 868 candidates today entered the last two weeks of campaigning for the June 10 federal election.

Apart from a last-day flurry of entries by independent candidates in Quebec, there were no surprises when nominations were completed Monday in 242 of Canada's 263 constituencies. Candidates in 21 other scattered ridings had paid their $200 deposits in an advance nomination day two weeks ago.

At least two candidates were named in every other constituency. In the 1953 general election, 898 candidates were named. The total number of seats in the Commons is 265, with the electors of Halifax and Queens, in Prince Edward Island having votes for two candidates.

When Parliament was dissolved April 12 the Liberals held 168 seats, Progressive Conservatives 50, CCF 22, Social Credit 15, and Independents three. There were seven vacancies.

Standing after the Aug. 10, 1953, election was: Liberals 173, Progressive Conservatives 51, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, Independents 3.

Sacred Opposes St. Laurent

Social Credit has five candidates in Quebec, one of them, Roland Roy who has Prime Minister St. Laurent as an opponent in Quebec East.

Mr. St. Laurent, whose 20,104 majority in a five-man contest in 1953 was the greatest in Canada, also is opposed by Louis Gagnon, Progressive Conservative.

In the Atlantic provinces, Liberals and Progressive Conservatives are opponents in 32 constituencies. The CCF has 12 candidates, Social Credit three and one Independent.

Liberals and PCs have a full slate in Ontario's 85 constituencies and there are 60 CCF, 40 Social Credit and nine other candidates. Seventeen of the 30 women seeking election are in Ontario which returned the only four women elected in 1953.

Manitoba has a full slate of Liberal, PC, CCF and Social Credit candidates, plus four others, in its 14 constituencies, while Saskat-

The Liberals, with support from Liberal-Labor William M. Benedictson in Kenora-Rainy River, have a full slate of 265 candidates, as they had in the last election. The Progressive Conservatives have 257 compared with 247.

The CCF total has fallen off slightly to 162 from 171, while Social Credit has increased to 116 from 71.

Completing the roster are 68 candidates, exclusive of Mr. Benedictson, of various affiliations. There are Independents, Labor-Progressive, Canadian Democrats, Liberal-Conservative coalition, and Capital Familial, the designation of a persistent but not yet successful candidate in Trois-Rivières, Que.

The Communist Labor-Progressives, whose 100 candidates all lost their deposits in 1953, entered only 10 candidates. Mrs. Camille Dionne, spokesman for the party in Quebec, said the number was decreased "to promote labor unity at the polls."

In Quebec, where there are Liberals entered in all 75 constituencies and Progressive Conservatives in 69, the miscellaneous group of candidates included 36 Independent Liberals, 10 Independent and five Independent Progressive Conservatives.

Alberta lacks only two CCF candidates for a full entry by the four leading parties in its 17 ridings and the only absentee in British Columbia's 22 seats is a Social Credit candidate in Skeena.

The Yukon and Northwest Territories seats are straight Liberal-PC contests.

Seats of all the party leaders are being contested by at least three candidates. PC Leader John Diefenbaker has Liberal and CCF opposition in Prince Albert and CCF chief M. J. Coldwell is opposed by Liberal, PC and Social Credit candidates in Rosetown-Biggar.

Solon Low, head of Social Credit, will have a five-way fight against Liberal, PC, CCF and Independent candidates in Peace River.

Juvenile Joy-Rider Captured As Shots Fired in Wild Chase

Fleeing before warning shots fired by a Saanich policeman, a 17-year-old Victoria juvenile car thief, suspect was captured Monday night after nearly a two-mile chase at high speed. A joy-riding companion escaped into bushland near Pear Street just off Cedar Hill Road where the car was ditched.

Saanich patrolman Const. Frank C. Briers spotted the car at Hillside and Quadra at about 10.30 p.m., a few minutes after it was reported missing by owner George Topliss, 2316 Howard.

He chased it along Hillside, north on Cook to Lang and along Lang to Cedar Hill almost to Pear, where the youths stopped and tried to make an escape on foot.

Const. Briers fired three shots as warning to stop, but the two kept going.

The driver was caught by Bob Curran, 3590 Cedar Hill, who saw him running through his property.

Saanich police turned him over to Victoria juvenile authorities, who are dealing with the matter.

City police cars had been alerted to keep access roads to Victoria under observation during the chase in which driver of the stolen car repeatedly attempted to lose his pursuers by switching headlights off.

Happy Family Ends Mortgage Worries

New Plan Will Ensure Mortgage is Paid Off! Last summer, a young couple bought a home in a quiet suburban area for $15,000. They paid $5,000 down, with a 20 year mortgage for $10,000. As things stand, they should have no trouble paying it off.

The husband is taking no chances. He has a Confederation Life Mortgage Insurance Plan, with a Total Disability Clause. For $8.31 a month Confederation will pay off his mortgage in case of death. If he becomes disabled, the policy remains in force at no cost to him.

Yes, for less than 1% of your initial mortgage, based on age 35 or under, you can protect your family from foreclosure at the time of your death.

Features of the Confederation Life Plan

1. This Mortgage Insurance Plan may be purchased on a 15, 20 or 25 year basis.
2. The cost reduces in later years.
3. After the mortgage period you may continue the protection at reduced cost, or receive a cash payment.

Education Discussed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada has urgent need today for men and women with a liberal education as well as for technicians, the annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was told today.

"We desperately need such men and women in the realm of government and politics, in leadership and administration of our social organizations and, most of all, as teachers in our schools and colleges," said Mrs. A. R. Jewitt of Lennoxville, Que., war memorials secretary.

She told the 250 delegates at four scholarships for overseas study granted this year from the order's second war memorial fund are to be given to students pursuing a liberal education.

"What we want are graduates who can think and act for themselves, graduates who can choose between truth and falsehood, wisdom and folly, beauty and ugliness, and thus constitute, by their very nature, a good society," Mrs. Jewitt quoted a distinguished lecturer.

Financial reports of the two war memorial funds showed the order provided overseas scholarships worth more than $23,000 and bursaries for studies in Canada worth more than $17,000 during the last year. Assets of the two funds stand at more than $800,000.

Renfrew to take a post-graduate course at Stanford University.

During his service in the logging community, Dr. Davies became known among the Indians as "the beloved one."

Chief Charles Queeto Jones, known among the West Coast Indians as "the chief of all chiefs," related how the doctor had saved the lives of Indians who were injured in logging accidents.

"The winds and the storms never stopped him from visiting the sick," he said. "When the bridges were washed out he came to us in a canoe."

"We love him not for what he is but for the spirit which moves him," he said.

Loggers related that Dr. Davies purchased from his own pocket medicine for Indians who were sick and too poor to afford expensive drugs. He worked tirelessly.

The Indians, a famed seafaring band, which hunted whales in dugout canoes, staged their famous Kuw-quathle dance (dance of joy) for the doctor.

As the young braves danced and imitated the gestures of birds and animals, Chief Jones summoned the spirits to watch and to guard the young doctor in his travel through life.

"Oh wind be kind to the beloved one who has served my people," he said in the Indian language. "May his life be as peaceful as the gentle brook that flows through the green forest."

And as he spoke, a young Indian pointed out of the window to the sky.

A white star moved across the heavens.

"See," he said. "The spirits have heard."

claims, "It's Time for a Diefenbaker Government."

The hall rocked with rowdy interruptions. Hecklers shouted that he headed "A St. Laurent government."

The prime minister laughed and pointed to the large Conservative advertisement.

The word "Conservative" only appeared once in small type at the bottom of the advertisement, he said, adding that Liberals were proud of their name and used it frequently in their advertisements.

Bands, Cheers

Mr. Diefenbaker meantime, was welcomed to his home constituency of Prince Albert, Sask., with hand music and cheers.

Earlier, in Saskatoon, he said the cost of implementing Conservative policy would not be more than a fifth of the price set on it by the Liberals.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Liberal spokesmen are claiming it would cost $1,500,000,000 to carry out Conservative promises. But at most it would not cost more than $300,000,000.

A Conservative government would carry out its promises and lower taxes "and still do it on a balanced budget."

His $300,000,000 maximum figure would be for current expenditures involved in carrying out Conservative policy, not for capital projects that were self-liquidating and paid their own way.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who later flew to Toronto, also said that Mr. St. Laurent has committed "one of the biggest prevarications in Canadian political history" by suggesting Ontario would get preferred tax-sharing treatment under a Conservative administration.

"The prime minister is afraid that his chances for re-election have been 'Frost-bitten'."

CCF leader Coldwell, in speeches at Winnipeg advocated an immigration policy that would be an integral part of planned development of the country.

Social Credit Leader Low meanwhile continued his grass roots cultivation in his northern Alberta constituency of Peace River.

Mother Burns Tots With Hot Plate, Iron

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Police said they will file felonious assault charges today against a 26-year-old Dayton mother accused of inflicting severe burns on her two-year-old twins.

Officers said Mrs. Mildred Hammett, who gave birth to her sixth child three days ago, admitted she placed her son, Tony Allen, on a hot gas register May 13 and held him there after learning he needed a diaper change.

On another occasion, her daughter, Tonya, crawled under Mrs. Hammett's feet while ironing. As punishment, police said, Mrs. Hammett placed the hot iron against Tonya's body.

Tony Allen was reported in fair condition in hospital with third-degree burns to his back, legs, arms and face and bottom of both feet. Tonya was released from hospital Saturday after treatment.

Anti-U.S. Drive Sparked by Reds

TOKYO (UP)—Communist China called today on "all patriotic forces" on Formosa to rise against the government and "drive the American aggressors out of the island" in an aftermath to Taipei's anti-American demonstrations of last Friday.

The situation in Taipei was quiet, but there were reprisals in Hong Kong where American sailors were called back to their ships to prevent trouble, and in Manila where Mayor Arsenio Lacson said he would jail any Chinese attempting to demonstrate against the U.S. embassy.

The Peiping broadcast today was the most bitter propaganda blast yet since the mobs wrecked the embassy in protest against the acquittal of M/Sgt. Robert Reynolds of Colorado, Md., on manslaughter charges in the "peeping tom" slaying of a Chinese.

The kickoff shot of 20 nuclear tests to be staged during the series, today's pre-dawn blast presented a fearsome but relatively small spectacle in the family of fission explosions.

For a few frightening seconds the darkness became day, as if some giant floodlight had been flicked quickly on and then off in the sky overhead.

The detonation itself thundered like the roar of a monster cannon. The first shock wave reached News Nob, 11 miles from the tower, about one minute after the flash. No heat was felt by newsmen.

The fireball, about 900 feet in diameter, burned with a temperature approaching 1,000,000 degrees centigrade, capable of vaporizing steel girders. It was prevented from touching the ground, and sucking up dust, by the height of the tower, thus reducing to a minimum the possible radioactive fallout from the atomic cloud. The tower disappeared in the blinding flash.

The atomic cloud boiled upward in an unusual double mushroom design.

Moscow Sees Glimmer of Hope In Arms Talks

LONDON (UP)—Moscow saw the "glimmering of a constructive solution" to world disarmament problems today in the U.S. promise to meet Russia halfway in working out their differences.

A broadcast by Moscow Radio said the Soviets will give "the most careful consideration" to practical proposals for a first step in reducing the world's arms and armies.

The broadcast gave the first direct Soviet reaction to the new American stand which U.S. delegate Harold Stassen presented Monday to the London disarmament conference.

Conference officials said Stassen did not intend to start presenting concrete western proposals at today's session of the talks. He planned to deliver a background speech on his consultations in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and West German Chancellor Adenauer agreed today to press for a limited disarmament agreement with Russia "under an effective system of international control."

What Is Osmosis?

Osmosis is a simple law of nature. It goes on all by itself, all the time, all over the world. Unless we investigate, we do not even know that it is happening. But if this law were repealed, the world as we know it would come to an end. There would be no more trees to make oxygen for us to breathe, no grass for the cattle, no corn and no crops. Pretty soon there would be no animals and no people. That's how important osmosis is in our world.

Osmosis concerns the behavior of liquids. Water, as you know, tends to flow downhill. But, under certain conditions, water can be forced to flow uphill. We have plumbing systems to make it flow uphill through pipes under pressure. Plants need water to flow uphill from the ground to their top-most leaves. Instead of plumbing systems of metal pipes, they simply let nature's law of osmosis do the job for them.

You can see how it works with a small experiment. You will need a glass dish and a glass tube, some water and a little sugar. Most important you will need a strip of membrane. Membrane is covering tissue in animal and plant bodies. You may peel a strip from a sausage, if you are sure this covering is natural membrane and not plastic.

Tie the membrane over one end of the tube. Dissolve the sugar in a little water and use it to half-fill the glass tube. Now pour some plain water into the dish and set the glass tube in it with the membrane under water. In a little while you will find more water in the tube and less in the dish. Osmosis has been at work.

The liquid in the dish is plain water. The liquid in the tube is plain water plus the dissolved sugar. The water seeped up, through the membrane to join the stronger solution. By osmosis, a weaker solution will always seep through a membrane to join a stronger solution on the other side—uphill or downhill.

The roots and tiny root hairs of plants wear sleeves of membrane. The cells and veins of plants are lined with membranes. And the plant tissues are filled with rich, sugary, liquid sap. The moisture in the ground contains dissolved chemicals. But this solution is weaker than the rich sap in the plant. In the earth, the sap and the ground water are separated by root membranes. So osmosis gets to work and the ground water seeps into the plant.

Other factors operate to keep moisture circulating through the plant. Water evaporates from leaves and branches in the air. This creates space and a pulling force from above. Water molecules tend to cling together. This, along with osmosis pushing from below and evaporation pulling up from above keeps an elevator of water flowing upwards through the plant. This is the power which keeps the plant food circulating and provides the pressure for plants to stand up and grow.

Your Social Credit Candidate for Victoria

Two basic facts have emerged from the federal election campaign:

(1) The Liberals will lose the election;

(2) The Conservatives can't win it.

Results of the latest public opinion polls, and a check of the same polls during the 1953 election, show conclusively that the Liberals will lose at least 40 seats.

It takes 134 seats to control the House of Commons, but the Grits will have 130 or less when the votes are counted.

They will lose 12 seats in the Maritimes and Quebec; they will lose 18 seats in Ontario; and they will lose 10 seats in Western Canada.

The Tories, on the other hand, must win at least 80 new seats to gain control of the House.
